Parking Meters To Be Idle

Sponsored by the retail merchants committee of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce, almost all retail stores in the city will offer special bargains during the day.

In addition to saving dollars on their purchases during the day, shoppers in Circleville Thursday will be given parking privileges without paying into the meters.

CITY COUNCIL is cooperating with the concerted effort of the merchants and has instructed its special meter officers to take a "vacation" Thursday so that shoppers may have free parking during the value-packed day.

By the same token, employes of the stores in the meter areas have been asked not to take advantage of the situation by parking in the meter areas.

The special bargain day was set up by the retail committee to induce shoppers to visit the stores of the city, acquaint themselves with the products offered for sale and to take advantage of the money-saving bargains.

Plan of the retail merchants is to make this Dollar Day sale a twice-a-year event in Circleville.

The promotion was tried a year ago and proved successful, although only a small number of merchants cooperated.

This year, only a few retail houses are not joining in the movement to help the buyer stretch his dollar.

WHILE NOT all items are marked at the one buck level most items are at least shaved.

In business houses where large items are carried in the multi-dollar bracket, tags will carry the notation: "10 percent reduction."

A spokesman for the promotion assured buyers that "this will not be a junk clearance sale." He added:

"Merchants are being careful that they do not mislead customers by trying to unload a batch of 'dogs and cats' (old and slow-moving items), but instead, promise that the sale will feature regular merchandise at bargain prices."

Tribute Is Paid To Steve Early

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—President Truman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today headed a throng of distiiguished persons who paid last tribute to Stephen T. Early, former deputy secretary of defense and veteran White House press secretary.

Funeral services for the one-time newspaperman who handled White House press relations almost throughout the late President Roosevelt's era and who likewise had served Mr. Truman were conducted in Washington Cathedral.

Burial with full military honors followed in Arlington National Cemetery. Early, an infantry captain in World War I, won the Silver Star for gallantry on the battlefield.

2 LOSE RIGHTS FOR YEAR

5 Men Are Cited Here For Driving While Drunk

Two men were deprived of their driving rights for one year each Tuesday in Pickaway County common pleas court for drunken driving.

They are Richard Burris, 21, of Ashville, and James P. Kalb, 26, of Canal Winchester, both arrested for drunken driving last weekend.

In addition, both men were fined $25 and costs in the court and sentenced to 30 days in Pickaway County jail. The jail sentences later were suspended in favor of probation.

Burris was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James Diltz Saturday night following a minor traffic accident on Route 316 near South Bloomfield.

MEANWHILE, two other men pleaded innocent to drunken driving accusations in the court early Tuesday, while a third man is to appear Wednesday on a similar accusation.

Eddie Rutter, 52, of 373 Weldon avenue, pleaded innocent to an accusation of drunken driving filed against him early Sunday by city police following an accident on North Pickaway street.

Rutter's auto was involved in a collision with a fire hydrant on North Pickaway street at about 2 a. m. Sunday, police said. Celia Rutter, 53, a passenger in the auto, suffered a fractured left wrist.

Also pleading innocent was Leeoney H. Warren, 44, of Columbus, arrested Sunday on South Pickaway street by city police.

Rutter and Warren both were bound to Pickaway grand jury on $500 bonds during preliminary hearings in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller.

In Tuesday's action, common pleas court reduced the bonds of both men to $200 each, indicating further hearings of the cases probably will be held in September.

THE FOUR MEN were taken before Common Pleas Judge William Radcliff on bills of information introduced by Attorney Emmitt Crist, acting prosecutor in the absence of Prosecutor Guy Cline.

The fifth man arrested last weekend on an accusation of drunken driving is Elba McCollister, 26, of Portsmouth.

McCollister was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Jack Dewey on Route 22 following a minor accident. The Portsmouth man is to appear in common pleas court at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

McCollister also is accused of driving an auto while his license was suspended or revoked; reckless operation; and leaving the scene of an accident.

In preliminary hearings on the three accusations Tuesday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root, McCollister was held for the grand jury action on $500 bond for the driving under revocation accusation and $500 bond for the reckless operation accusation.

Hearing on the accusation of leaving the scene of an accident was continued by the Magistrate's court until 10 a. m. Saturday.

Hot, Dry Spell To Hold In Ohio, Weatherman Says

Hot, dry, clear skies, sunshine.

That was the word Tuesday from the weatherman as he looked at his weather maps for Ohio.

"The whole state is in the midst of a hot, dry spell with temperatures soaring above the 90 mark in many spots," the forecaster said.

For the most part the skies will be fairly clear and filled with sunshine, he added.

"Right now there is not much exchange of weather from one area to another. No air masses are stirring very far from where they are now," he pointed out.

The hot, dry period will extend through Wednesday at least, he said. Following is the weather bureau's five-day forecast for Ohio:

"Scattered showers in eastern portion Thursday. Showers likely again Saturday, totaling one quarter to three quarter inches. Cooler Thursday, warmer Saturday and probably Sunday, averaging normal to two above normal."

Temperatures at various cities throughout the country at 8 a. m. Tuesday were: Washington 74, Miami 77, Chicago 76, Denver 58 and Los Angeles 63.

Summary of readings for the Circleville area follows:

Yesterday's high, 93; low, 65; at 8 a. m. today, 71. Year ago high, 78; low, 57. Sunrise, 5:42 a. m.; sunset, 7:31 p. m. River, 1.96 feet.

UN GENERALS WARN COMMIES THEY RISK FULL-SCALE WAR

Truce Talks Sputtering On And On

Buffer Zone Issue Still Stalemated

KAESONG, Aug. 14—The Korea armistice conference sputtered through another fruitless session today.

The chief Red delegate, Gen. Nam Il, spent 73 minutes of Tuesday's 161-minute meeting in an harangue denouncing the UN argument that Allied air-naval superiority must be considered in settling the deadlocked buffer zone issue.

Nam also repeated the old Communist charge that the South Koreans started the war and reiterated the Red demand for a 38th Parallel cease-fire line as being "reasonable and just."

In contrast to this uncompromising stand, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said the Allies would be willing to make some withdrawals in a "spirit of give and take" if the Reds would accept the present ground front as a basis for a demilitarized belt.

THE UN SUPREME commander indicated at a Tokyo news conference that the Allied proposal generally envisions a neutral zone with its southern rim along "defensible" positions held by UN troops. The northern edge apparently would stretch 10 to 20 miles above the Allied front line.

Whether Ridgway's statement might soften the Communist stand could not be immediately discerned — at least until Wednesday when a 25th meeting of the armistice parley is to be held at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday EST).

A briefing officer at the UN base in Korea revealed that Nam had declared the Red demand for a 38th Parallel buffer zone would not be changed at Wednesday's session.

However, Nam made this announcement in the conference chamber several hours before Ridgway in Tokyo defined for the world the "generalized" proposal the UN has presented.

It was not until after adjournment of the 24th session Tuesday that Ridgway made his dramatic statement in which he promised the UN will "do everything possible" to bring the stalemated

$5.8 BILLION AUTHORIZED

House OKs, 352-5, Huge Military Building Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The House today approved by a voice vote the $5.8 billion military construction bill. The vote on final passage of the bill was 352 to 5. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Efforts by Rep. Gross, (R) Ia., to obtain a rollcall vote on his motion to knock out a $19 million Grandview, Mo., air base project were unavailing when an insufficient number of House members joined him in asking for a recorded vote.

Gross temporarily held up House passage of the giant construction measure last week by his motion to send the bill back to the House Armed Services Committee so that the air base near President Truman's hometwon could be eliminated.

On a test vote last week his proposal was rejected 56 to 16 with GOP Leader Martin, (R) Mass., and Minority Whip Arends, (R) Ill., voting with the majority.

PROPONENTS of the bill denied that the selection of Grandview for an airbase site was prompted by political considerations.

They disclosed that an interceptor fighter wing will be stationed there and that headquarters of the Central Air Defense Force will be moved to Grandview.

Of the total $5.8 billion, almost $1.4 billion is allotted for the building of top-secret military bases both in the United States and abroad.

By services, the bill authorizes the following funds to be spent for construction.

First 25 Ousted Cadets Leaving Military Academy

WEST POINT, Aug. 14—West Point authorities disclosed today that about 25 of the 90 cadets accused of violating the honor code will leave the academy this afternoon.

The cadets are expected to depart for their homes in small groups at staggered hours and will receive formal army discharges by mail.

Some parents came to the military academy in automobiles to bring home their sons.

The other cadets facing ouster are expected to leave West Point within a week. Three of these are now on overseas assignments.

They trooped in to see the head mentor in a steady stream of twos and threes and Blaik advised them: "Pick your new school not only for athletics, but also for a worthwhile education."

B-50 Crash Kills 11

Loss Of Power Cited As Cause

SEATTLE, Aug. 14—Preliminary inquiry indicated today that a complete loss of power caused a giant B-50 bomber to crash and explode against a Seattle apartment house, killing at least 11 persons.

The four-engine aircraft, on a flight to test secret military equipment, struck the 51-unit apartment house in mid-afternoon yesterday while most of its occupants were fortunately at their jobs away from home.

Six of the known dead were the crew members of the bomber, including three Airforce officers and three aviation test experts of the Boeing Airplane Co.

The five others were occupants of the apartment building, a section of which was split apart and set ablaze by flaming sheets of aviation gasoline spewed from the bomber's 4,000-gallon tanks. Twenty apartment units were destroyed.

A JOINT Airforce and Boeing company investigating board held a preliminary investigation near the scene a short time after the crash. They questioned eyewitnesses of the tragedy while what they saw was still vivid in their memories.

Qualified pilots who witnessed the crash paid high tribute to the pilot, Lt. Lloyd Vanderwielin, 33, of Seattle. They said he banked the plane sharply when trouble developed to avoid plunging into

Cease-Fire Stalling Irks Allies

Ridgway Explains Buffer Zone Stand

TOKYO, Aug. 14 — The two highest United Nations military commanders served notice on the Communists today to negotiate an acceptable cease-fire line in Korea or risk a renewed full-scale Allied assault.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, head of all UN military forces, defined a satisfactory buffer zone as one which would provide sound positions to both sides and require some Allied as well as Red withdrawals in a "spirit of give and take."

In an apparent bid to break the deadlock gripping the Kaesong armistice talks, Ridgway pledged his delegation to "do everything possible" to bring the negotiations to "a successful conclusion."

But he reiterated the UN's staunch rejection of the Communist demand for a demarcation line astride what he called the "political" and "indefensible" 38th Parallel.

AFTER RIDGWAY made his statement to newsmen in his Tokyo headquarters, his ground commander in Korea said the Eighth Army will "really clobber" the Reds if the truce talks fail and full warfare is resumed.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet told reporters at the UN armistice base that his soldiers "don't like this stuff at Kaesong" and "would be delighted to give a good account of themselves" if the conference collapses.

Van Fleet uttered this comment after reading the official "no progress" report from Kaesong where the armistice on the cease-fire line issue. The general declared:

"People back home as well as the soldiers are impatient with the arrogance of the Communists at the Kaesong talks.

"That's making the men of the Eighth Army a little mad. They would be delighted to give a good account of themselves in the

Cleveland Set To Greet Mac

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14 — Gen. Douglas MacArthur will come to Cleveland Sept. 6 to receive the city's welcome and make a speech in Public Hall.

The general is expected to arrive by plane at Cleveland Hopkins Airport where a waiting parade will then escort him downtown. He will speak later from Public Hall at 7:30 p. m.

Mayor Thomas A. Burke heads the Greater Cleveland Citizens Committee which will welcome the hero of the Pacific in World War II and of the early months of the Korean war.

Wilson Fears New Curbs To Zoom Living Cost Up

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 14—Defense Mobilizer Wilson warned today that the "danger of war is greater than ever" and declared that the new economics controls laws may mean a $10 to $16 billion rise in the annual cost of living and result in "local meat famines and black markets."

Addressing the national institute for Chamber of Commerce and trade association executives, Wilson said the new controls law will make the defense program more costly if it results in higher living costs as his top aides predict. He added:

"To translate these big figures into terms that every householder can understand, we face an increase of ten percent in the cost of bread, of one cent per quart of milk and three cents per dozen of eggs.

"To cite another phase of the new legislation, I am pessimistic about the effect of the abolition of meat slaughtering quotas. It looks as if this might disrupt the distribution system and concentrate the supply in the large packers at the expense of independents.

"The latter may face the choice of going out of business or entering the black market. The result is likely to be local meat famines—which the customer can avoid only by paying illegal and extortionate prices for black market meat."

Turning to the international situation, the defense mobilizer said "we are hearing a lot of sweet talk out of Moscow" and "I wish I could believe it means a change of heart on the part of the conspirators in the Kremlin."

However, he added: "I believe that deeds are more eloquent than words and I would pay more attention to the words that are printed in Pravda if they were matched with deeds.

"We must distinguish between promise and performance and we must beware of olive branches that may be equipped with booby traps.

"The danger of war is as great, it is greater than ever—and only in building America's might is there any hope of staving off what otherwise would be inevitable. That is the basic promise of defense mobilization."

Freedom Leaflets Being Carried Over Iron Curtain By Balloons

MUNICH, Aug. 14—Two million messages of freedom floated over the Iron Curtain today in 2,000 balloons, carrying to the people of Czechoslovakia proof that the Democracy they once knew still lives.

The operation of the balloon campaign is based on the fact that prevailing winds in Europe travel from west to east. The balloons have a range of 100 to 700 miles and travel at a speed of 25 to 30 miles an hour.

Each of the balloons carried in large letters the word, "Svoboda," Czech for "freedom."

On one side of the leaflets was a message of friendship which concluded with the words:

"Tyranny cannot control the winds—cannot enslave your hearts. Freedom will rise again."

On the reverse side were the names of radio stations in the free world beaming programs behind the Iron Curtain, their hours of operation and their frequencies.

Sponsoring the project are seven non-governmental organiations. Among American officials on hand last night for the launching of the project was Harold E. Stassen, 1951 chairman of the Crusade for Freedom, who said:

"Tonight we tore a big hole in the Iron Curtain. This new and additional method of reaching the prisoner peoples with the truth will brighten the prospects for future peace and freedom."

Increase In Military Strength To Bring New Consumer Goods Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — Authoritative government officials said today that congressional approval of substantial increases in military strength will bring "a further sharp reduction" in output of automobiles, home appliances and other consumer durable goods.

In his mid-year economic report, President Truman indicated he may request authority to raise the present 3.5 million manpower goal of the Army "in the light of changing conditions."

Commenting on these developments, Defense Production Administration officials asserted that "any increase in armed forces would mean almost corresponding cuts in civilian industrial operations."

Large increases in the supply of basic materials—steel, copper and aluminum—are not expected for a year or more. On other metals, such as nickel and cobalt, the defense program is now taking virtually 100 percent of the supply and no immediate relief is in sight.

If Congress steps up the military program, officials declared, there will not be a sufficient increase in materials supplies to offset Army and Airforce demands. One DPA expert said:

"We may be able to reduce military demand somewhat if their production specifications are lowered through re-design, but this will not help too much. The only other alternative is to tap civilian supplies to make up the difference."

"To cite another phase of the new legislation, I am pessimistic about the effect of the abolition of meat slaughtering quotas. It looks as if this might disrupt the distribution system and concentrate the supply in the large packers at the expense of independents.

"The latter may face the choice of going out of business or entering the black market. The result is likely to be local meat famines—which the customer can avoid only by paying illegal and extortionate prices for black market meat."

Turning to the international situation, the defense mobilizer said "we are hearing a lot of sweet talk out of Moscow" and "I wish I could believe it means a change of heart on the part of the conspirators in the Kremlin."

However, he added: "I believe that deeds are more eloquent than words and I would pay more attention to the words that are printed in Pravda if they were matched with deeds.

"We must distinguish between promise and performance and we must beware of olive branches that may be equipped with booby traps.

"The danger of war is as great, it is greater than ever—and only in building America's might is there any hope of staving off what otherwise would be inevitable. That is the basic promise of defense mobilization."

First 25 Ousted Cadets Leaving Military Academy

WEST POINT, Aug. 14—West Point authorities disclosed today that about 25 of the 90 cadets accused of violating the honor code will leave the academy this afternoon.

The cadets are expected to depart for their homes in small groups at staggered hours and will receive formal army discharges by mail.

Some parents came to the military academy in automobiles to bring home their sons.

The other cadets facing ouster are expected to leave West Point within a week. Three of these are now on overseas assignments.

They trooped in to see the head mentor in a steady stream of twos and threes and Blaik advised them: "Pick your new school not only for athletics, but also for a worthwhile education."

B-50 Crash Kills 11

Loss Of Power Cited As Cause

SEATTLE, Aug. 14—Preliminary inquiry indicated today that a complete loss of power caused a giant B-50 bomber to crash and explode against a Seattle apartment house, killing at least 11 persons.

The four-engine aircraft, on a flight to test secret military equipment, struck the 51-unit apartment house in mid-afternoon yesterday while most of its occupants were fortunately at their jobs away from home.

Six of the known dead were the crew members of the bomber, including three Airforce officers and three aviation test experts of the Boeing Airplane Co.

The five others were occupants of the apartment building, a section of which was split apart and set ablaze by flaming sheets of aviation gasoline spewed from the bomber's 4,000-gallon tanks. Twenty apartment units were destroyed.

A JOINT Airforce and Boeing company investigating board held a preliminary investigation near the scene a short time after the crash. They questioned eyewitnesses of the tragedy while what they saw was still vivid in their memories.

Qualified pilots who witnessed the crash paid high tribute to the pilot, Lt. Lloyd Vanderwielin, 33, of Seattle. They said he banked the plane sharply when trouble developed to avoid plunging into

Ridgway Explains Buffer Zone Stand

TOKYO, Aug. 14 — The two highest United Nations military commanders served notice on the Communists today to negotiate an acceptable cease-fire line in Korea or risk a renewed full-scale Allied assault.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, head of all UN military forces, defined a satisfactory buffer zone as one which would provide sound positions to both sides and require some Allied as well as Red withdrawals in a "spirit of give and take."

In an apparent bid to break the deadlock gripping the Kaesong armistice talks, Ridgway pledged his delegation to "do everything possible" to bring the negotiations to "a successful conclusion."

But he reiterated the UN's staunch rejection of the Communist demand for a demarcation line astride what he called the "political" and "indefensible" 38th Parallel.

AFTER RIDGWAY made his statement to newsmen in his Tokyo headquarters, his ground commander in Korea said the Eighth Army will "really clobber" the Reds if the truce talks fail and full warfare is resumed.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet told reporters at the UN armistice base that his soldiers "don't like this stuff at Kaesong" and "would be delighted to give a good account of themselves" if the conference collapses.

Van Fleet uttered this comment after reading the official "no progress" report from Kaesong where the armistice on the cease-fire line issue. The general declared:

"People back home as well as the soldiers are impatient with the arrogance of the Communists at the Kaesong talks.

Cleveland Set To Greet Mac

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14 — Gen. Douglas MacArthur will come to Cleveland Sept. 6 to receive the city's welcome and make a speech in Public Hall.

The general is expected to arrive by plane at Cleveland Hopkins Airport where a waiting parade will then escort him downtown. He will speak later from Public Hall at 7:30 p. m.

Mayor Thomas A. Burke heads the Greater Cleveland Citizens Committee which will welcome the hero of the Pacific in World War II and of the early months of the Korean war.

Increase In Military Strength To Bring New Consumer Goods Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — Authoritative government officials said today that congressional approval of substantial increases in military strength will bring "a further sharp reduction" in output of automobiles, home appliances and other consumer durable goods.

In his mid-year economic report, President Truman indicated he may request authority to raise the present 3.5 million manpower goal of the Army "in the light of changing conditions."

Commenting on these developments, Defense Production Administration officials asserted that "any increase in armed forces would mean almost corresponding cuts in civilian industrial operations."

Large increases in the supply of basic materials—steel, copper and aluminum—are not expected for a year or more. On other metals, such as nickel and cobalt, the defense program is now taking virtually 100 percent of the supply and no immediate relief is in sight.

If Congress steps up the military program, officials declared, there will not be a sufficient increase in materials supplies to offset Army and Airforce demands. One DPA expert said:

"We may be able to reduce military demand somewhat if their production specifications are lowered through re-design, but this will not help too much. The only other alternative is to tap civilian supplies to make up the difference."

Cease-Fire Stalling Irks Allies

event nothing comes of these talks.

Asked about reports that the Reds might launch an offensive if the Kaesong conference collapses, Van Fleet replied:

"WE IN THE military feel that we would like to have the opportunity to meet them if they attack. We would really clobber them. I don't know of a better way to get it over faster.

"We don't feel frightened a bit. The enemy is hurt. He's in bad shape. He needs peace."

He expressed the opinion that the Communists even are "in worse shape" than they were before the armistice negotiations were launched. He attributed this to continued Allied air attacks and recent floods.

Choosing the medium of a news conference through which to tell the world what the UN is proposing in Kaesong, Ridgway said the Allied plan envisions the present UN frontline, mostly inside Red North Korea, as the southern edge of a buffer one.

He indicated that the demilitarized area would extend in width 10 to 20 miles north of the Allied positions, necessitating Communist withdrawals.

But he termed the UN proposal "not inflexible" and said the Allies are willing to discuss "adjustments" under which their troops, too, might withdraw in certain places to leave the Reds in positions they could consider defensible.

"WE HAVE BEEN patient," Ridgway declared. "We have been firm. And we have been reasonable.

"We will continue to be so, as long as the negotiations hold out any hope of eventual success."

The UN military chief flatly denounced the rigid Red insistence on Parallel 38 as a military dividing line. The demilitarized zone, he asserted, "must be based on the military situation" and "cannot be related merely to a line of latitude."

He recalled how the South Koreans and the UN forces twice had been overrun when they tried to defend the 38th Parallel against the Reds—first at the outset of the war in June, 1950, and then last January when the Chinese launched a huge offensive.

"That is twice that that has happened," Ridgway said. "In the light of the bitter, cold facts, how can anyone expect us to go back to the same line again?"

When asked if the hilly line now held by the Allies can be successfully defended, the supreme commander replied:

"I have no doubt that it could be if he (the enemy) launched an assault now."

REMARKING that the Reds have "materially increased" their combat forces since the Kaesong parley opened, Ridgway declared that the enemy buildup does not necessarily represent a breach of faith in the negotiations.

"He (the enemy) is not bound to refrain from building up—and neither are we," the top UN commander pointed out.

Ridgway reiterated that his primary concern is that of a military commander bound to "consider the security of my forces." He observed nevertheless, that all military matters in these times have political implications, but added:

"It is not my business to discuss political questions."

The red line ran from 10 miles north of the actual battleline in the east to about 20 miles north of the front in the west-central sector. Then it looped just over the conference city of Kaesong and dipped south in the extreme west.

The red line was presumed to mark the northern border of the demilitarized area proposed by Ridgway's delegation at Kaesong, in opposition to the rigid Communist demand for an armistice belt astride the 38th Parallel.

"The line we propose," he explained, "is the line now generally held by the United Nations forces.

"It is a military line devoid of political implications, and the general line along which our forces now stand facing the enemy to the north.

"We have studiously refused to be drawn into any discussions of a political nature."

Two Patrolmen Cleared After Cleveland Trial

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14 — Two Cleveland patrolmen, suspended in connection with the reported theft of $28 from an east side drug store, have been cleared of departmental charges and returned to duty.

Safety Director Alvin J. Sutton dismissed the charges last night against Patrolmen Albert Adamich and Kenneth Nieman.

The two patrolmen had been charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and failing to make truthful reports about the reported theft of $28 from the Corner Drug Co. July 20.

Adamich and Nieman said they answer a burglar alarm at the rear of the store and found the door open. Nieman said he and Adamich searched the store for the owner's telephone number and, after a zone car arrived, they left.

The store owner, Alex Rosenberg, testified yesterday that he found the money missing from the cash register when he opened the store the next morning.

A former clerk at the store, Miss Lois Darnell, testified that Rosenberg "had it in for Nieman for a long time. He thought the patrolman wasn't rough enough on kids loafing in the store."

Moral Arming Key To Peace

CAUX SUR MONTREUX, Switzerland, Aug. 14—A former Italian Communist has told the Moral Rearmament Conference that he rejected the Soviet idea of "peace" for a real peace based on the principles of moral rearmament.

Clement Pedroni, speaking on behalf of 34 delegates representing factory workers in Northern Italy, told the conference:

"Through moral rearmament we have found new peace and will fight for that idea because it is the only answer to the problems we face and the building of a new world."

Bathing Suit Parade Banned

GRAYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 14—Grayville's modest maidens will not have to wear bathing suits to compete in this year's Tri-State Oil Show.

The committee in charge of the beauty queen contest has ruled that entrants in the Labor Day weekend competition will be judged as they appear in formal attire.

The committee said its ruling was made because in the past many prospective contestants shied away from displaying themselves in public in bathing suits.

Utah Pen Hit By New Riots

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 14—Utah state prison officials issued a call for peace officers today to help control rioting convicts.

First reports said a number of inmates had seized "several" guards and are holding them hostage in the prison.

The incident appeared to follow the same pattern set last June 20 when 300 prisoners rioted for four hours, holding seven guards. Since then Warden A. O. Severson and his successor, T. A. Callicott, have resigned.

Ohio Gets Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — A Defense Department release said today that Ohio received $1,449,442,000 worth of prime military contracts between July 1, 1950, and May 31, 1951.

Alarm Sounded For Escapee

PAINESVILLE, Aug. 14 — A statewide alarm is out for a 33-year-old man who escaped from the Lake County jail before he could be transferred to Ohio Penitentiary to serve a term for grand larceny.

Louis Walton of Painesville, who had been in jail since Jan. 20, used a piece of wire to open a locked cell door.

He had been sentenced to a one to seven year term in the penitentiary for breaking into a railroad freight car and stealing a refrigerator.

Akron Grabs Dope Peddler

AKRON, Aug. 14—Akron police today are investigating a man described by them as "one of the biggest narcotics peddlers in the city."

Police have charged William Humphreys, 32, with suspicion of narcotics possession and are holding him under $5,000 bail.

Humphreys was carrying a load of heroin from Cleveland to Akron, police said, but he threw it away just before he was arrested for speeding in Brecksville.

British Arms Program Irks Leftist Worker

LONDON, Aug. 14—A young British naval armament supply officer who became a Communist said today he has been suspended from his job.

Malcolm W. McGrath, 36, the senior armament supply officer at the Admiralty's Bath depot, said he was suspended with full pay and is awaiting reassignment to an "innocuous" position. He said:

"I joined the Communist Party in July, feeling it was the only party with a constructive policy for peace, and found my work at the Admiralty supplying arms for use against Chinese and Koreans incompatible with my views.

"There was a strong probability in the near future that I should be compelled to assist the rearmament of Germany and Japan which I bitterly opposed."

Official informants confirmed McGrath's suspension and said he would be assigned later to another department where security questions would not arise.

Madison Seeks To Replenish Its Bridge Fund

Madison Township board of trustees has received permission from the state board of tax appeals to file in Pickaway County common pleas court for transfer of funds from its general revenue fund into its road and bridge fund.

The board's petition seeks to have $2,000 from the general fund transferred into the road and bridge fund for necessary work.

According to the petition, the general account of the board as of May 1, contained $3,371.79 while its special road and bridge fund held only $446.49.

U.S. Considers Iran Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The State Department has disclosed it is considering a $25 million mutual aid project in Iran which would bring large uncultivated areas of that country into productive fertility.

Department Spokesman Michael J. McDermott explained that three fourths of the $25 million would be spent "in a village program" involving the provision of technical aid in all major phases of village life, such as agriculture, health, education and sanitation.

Sweden Grants Asylum To 12

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 14 — The Swedish foreign office has announced it has granted political asylum to the 12 Polish navy mutineers who locked up their Red officers Aug. 2 and landed in Sweden.

Poland recently notified Sweden it intends to request extradition of the men. The crewmen of a Polish minesweeper steered the ship into the port of Ystad, in Southern Sweden, and asked sanctuary from what they termed a "reign of terror" in their Communist-ruled homeland.

negotiations to "a successful conclusion."

THE UN BRIEFING officer, Brig. Gen. William F. Nuckols, said the Communist delegation refused Tuesday to answer an offer by Vice Adm. Charles Turner Joy to "adjust" the UN-proposed truce line and the width of the buffer zone.

Nuckols quoted Nam as saying UN air power did not affect Red strength and said the "temporary advantage" of air superiority was the only factor that "saved" the UN forces from defeat.

Nuckols quoted Joy as refuting Nam's arguments with the words:

"We are prosecuting the war behind your front lines which is not duplicated behind our lines.

"The present location of the front line is the result of the action of our ground forces combined with only a portion of our air and naval operations."

The remainder of the Allied air-naval forces, Joy pointed out, has been "devoted to military tasks which have an indirect, delayed effect on the position of the ground battle line."

Tuesday's meeting was the 14th in which the delegations have failed to end the stalemate over the vital issue of where to draw a cease-fire belt across Korea.

Commissioners OK Resurfacing Of County Roads

Pickaway County commissioners Monday authorized resurfacing of 22.3 miles of county roads at a cost not to exceed $23,289.89.

Longest single improvement to any of the four roads affected by the move is an 8.3-mile project to be completed on the Yankeetown-Dawson road.

Other resurfacing authorized by the panel includes 5.5 miles of the Circleville-Lockbourne road; 4.5 miles of the Clark Run road; and four miles of the Circleville-Tarlton Northern road.

Bids for the resurfacing contract are to be received in the commissioner's office in Pickaway Courthouse until noon Sept. 5.

Total amount of materials to be used in the resurfacing operation will be 78,496 gallons of road tar and 2,355 tons of crushed gravel.

New York Plans Mock 'Attacks'

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—New York City has announced plans for an indefinite series of mock "surprise" atomic "attacks" to familiarize citizens in case the real thing comes.

The simulated "attacks" will begin in November, said Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, and "no one will have any way of telling whether it is a real attack or just a test."

He said the city hoped to plan "all out Civilian Defense strategy" from results achieved in the test runs.

What's A Cow Worth? Dairyman Tells His Story

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—What's a cow worth?

Illinois extension agents are passing along a story which doesn't give an answer to that question, but might help you to draw your own conclusions.

Here's the story, as told by an Illinois dairyman:

"There is more to a cow than meets the eye. Mere looks might be very deceiving.

"Take Number 56 in our herd. She's big and bulky — rather coarse looking, with an udder that would scarcely score 75. If I didn't know her better, I would sell her. The butcher might offer $300.

"By the end of her fourth year on dairy herd improvement test, she had earned for us $1,636.17 over cost of feed. She has given us five calves. Her daughters already are cows and are well on their way to outproduce Mom.

"Number 56 will live to produce for many more years. When her time is up, she will give us her body for meat.

"You tell me what a cow is worth!"

Panel Urges OK Of Aid Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today criticized some European nations for failure to go all-out in anti-Communist defense buildups, but declared the U. S. aid program is "justified" and called for "maximum speed."

The committee report on the $7.8 billion military-economic aid bill which comes up on the House floor tomorrow warned that the assistance given Atlantic Pact allies to date is "insufficient to stop the initial attack."

Lad's Driving Spree Costly

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14 — It may be a long time before Pierre Fabien's dad lets him get behind the wheel of the family car again.

Pierre, 13, of University Heights, was showing a friend, Don Turner, also 13, how the ignition worked while they were sitting in the car in the Turner driveway.

When Pierre turned on the ignition and released the emergency brake, the car went through the open doors of the Turner garage, crashed out the back, hit a fence and ended up in a flower bed.

House Measure Raps At Czechs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The House today overwhelmingly approved a resolution urging the United States to sever trade relations with Czechoslovakia until that Communist government releases Newsman William Oatis.

The vote was 363 to 1, with Rep. Wood, (R) Idaho, casting the single no vote. Wood said the resolution is "ineffectual" and said he was in favor of "taking a battleship over there" if necessary to get the newsman out of the Communist country.

industrial plants occupied by hundreds of workers.

The bomber had taken off from the Boeing airfield only a few minutes before the crash. Testimony of eyewitnesses indicated the big plane was flying at an altitude of 250 feet when it began to fall.

It was heading north toward midtown Seattle and flying directly over the solidly industrialized area fringing Boeing field.

Pilot-witnesses said the plane appeared to have no power. Untrained witnesses who saw the plane's props turning assumed the motors were functioning, but the expert witnesses said the props were just "windmilling."

Pilot Vanderwielin obviously attempted to "mush in" against a wooded hillside just beyond the apartment house. The building was the last obstacle he had to clear to come down in the only unpopulated area nearby.

Just a few blocks south of the crash in the industrial area of South Seattle, a similar disaster occurred Feb. 18, 1943, when another Boeing bomber struck a packing plant. Thirty-one persons lost their lives in that crash, including a number of workers trapped in the burning packing house.

Sarah Bowdle Will Is Filed

Will of Sarah Bowdle of New Holland has been admitted in Pickaway County probate court and value of the estate has been estimated at $2,641.61.

By terms of the will, a daughter, Dorothy Graham of Chicago, is to receive the residence property of the deceased in New Holland, while three grandchildren are to share equally in the residue of the estate.

Grandchildren named under the will are June Byrne, Rosalie Guenther and Sallie Moore.

Children's Home Is Quarantined

LEBANON, Aug. 14 — Warren County children's home is under quarantine today following the death of a 12-year-old girl believed to be a victim of meningitis.

The action followed a preliminary report by Dr. Frank Dutra of Cincinnati who is conducting an autopsy of Lorraine Cole. Dutra told Dr. Arch D. Harvey, Warren County health commissioner, the exact cause of the death will not be known until at least tomorrow. The 30 children who reside at the home where the Cole girl was stricken are under observation and are receiving a preventative treatment pending an autopsy report.

Of the dozen cadets who today become the first group to leave "The Point," several of them said they would consider the opportunity presented by the cardinal's announcement.

The parents of one cadet already have made application at Fordham.

Ashville Man Faces Extradition

Robert V. Perrill of near Ashville has been placed on $500 bond in Pickaway County common pleas court for 60 days pending an extradition cause.

Perrill has refused to waive extradition on an accusation of grand larceny issued on the authority of Stuyvesant A. Pinnell, chief of detectives in Mineola, N. Y.

New York authorities have 60 days in which to extradite Perril by applying to the governor of Ohio for a hearing and presenting their evidence.

Church Confab Starts Friday

Turkey Run Baptist church near Ringgold will be host this weekend to the 174th annual session of the Scioto Primitive Baptist Association.

The annual session will begin at 10 a. m. Friday in the Turkey Run church and continue through Sunday with special worship and singing services.

A large number of ministers and lay members of the church from Ohio and other states are expected to attend the annual session.

Bus Company Faces Suits

WEIRTON, W. Va., Aug. 14—An additional $600,000 worth of suits have been filed against the Pittsburgh and Weirton Bus Co. as the result of the April 29 accident in which 13 were killed and 51 injured.

The suits were filed yesterday by Weirton residents who had been injured when a bus roared out of control down a steep hill and struck a retaining wall.

Cease-Fire Stalling Irks Allies

event nothing comes of these talks.

Asked about reports that the Reds might launch an offensive if the Kaesong conference collapses, Van Fleet replied:

"WE IN THE military feel that we would like to have the opportunity to meet them if they attack. We would really clobber them. I don't know of a better way to get it over faster.

"We don't feel frightened a bit. The enemy is hurt. He's in bad shape. He needs peace."

He expressed the opinion that the Communists even are "in worse shape" than they were before the armistice negotiations were launched. He attributed this to continued Allied air attacks and recent floods.

Choosing the medium of a news conference through which to tell the world what the UN is proposing in Kaesong, Ridgway said the Allied plan envisions the present UN frontline, mostly inside Red North Korea, as the southern edge of a buffer one.

He indicated that the demilitarized area would extend in width 10 to 20 miles north of the Allied positions, necessitating Communist withdrawals.

But he termed the UN proposal "not inflexible" and said the Allies are willing to discuss "adjustments" under which their troops, too, might withdraw in certain places to leave the Reds in positions they could consider defensible.

"WE HAVE BEEN patient," Ridgway declared. "We have been firm. And we have been reasonable.

"We will continue to be so, as long as the negotiations hold out any hope of eventual success."

The UN military chief flatly denounced the rigid Red insistence on Parallel 38 as a military dividing line. The demilitarized zone, he asserted, "must be based on the military situation" and "cannot be related merely to a line of latitude."

He recalled how the South Koreans and the UN forces twice had been overrun when they tried to defend the 38th Parallel against the Reds—first at the outset of the war in June, 1950, and then last January when the Chinese launched a huge offensive.

"That is twice that that has happened," Ridgway said. "In the light of the bitter, cold facts, how can anyone expect us to go back to the same line again?"

When asked if the hilly line now held by the Allies can be successfully defended, the supreme commander replied:

"I have no doubt that it could be if he (the enemy) launched an assault now."

REMARKING that the Reds have "materially increased" their combat forces since the Kaesong parley opened, Ridgway declared that the enemy buildup does not necessarily represent a breach of faith in the negotiations.

"He (the enemy) is not bound to refrain from building up—and neither are we," the top UN commander pointed out.

Ridgway reiterated that his primary concern is that of a military commander bound to "consider the security of my forces." He observed nevertheless, that all military matters in these times have political implications, but added:

The red line ran from 10 miles north of the actual battleline in the east to about 20 miles north of the front in the west-central sector. Then it looped just over the conference city of Kaesong and dipped south in the extreme west.

The red line was presumed to mark the northern border of the demilitarized area proposed by Ridgway's delegation at Kaesong, in opposition to the rigid Communist demand for an armistice belt astride the 38th Parallel.

"The line we propose," he explained, "is the line now generally held by the United Nations forces.

"It is a military line devoid of political implications, and the general line along which our forces now stand facing the enemy to the north.

"We have studiously refused to be drawn into any discussions of a political nature."

Two Patrolmen Cleared After Cleveland Trial

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14 — Two Cleveland patrolmen, suspended in connection with the reported theft of $28 from an east side drug store, have been cleared of departmental charges and returned to duty.

Safety Director Alvin J. Sutton dismissed the charges last night against Patrolmen Albert Adamich and Kenneth Nieman.

The two patrolmen had been charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and failing to make truthful reports about the reported theft of $28 from the Corner Drug Co. July 20.

Adamich and Nieman said they answer a burglar alarm at the rear of the store and found the door open. Nieman said he and Adamich searched the store for the owner's telephone number and, after a zone car arrived, they left.

The store owner, Alex Rosenberg, testified yesterday that he found the money missing from the cash register when he opened the store the next morning.

A former clerk at the store, Miss Lois Darnell, testified that Rosenberg "had it in for Nieman for a long time. He thought the patrolman wasn't rough enough on kids loafing in the store."

Moral Arming Key To Peace

CAUX SUR MONTREUX, Switzerland, Aug. 14—A former Italian Communist has told the Moral Rearmament Conference that he rejected the Soviet idea of "peace" for a real peace based on the principles of moral rearmament.

Clement Pedroni, speaking on behalf of 34 delegates representing factory workers in Northern Italy, told the conference:

"Through moral rearmament we have found new peace and will fight for that idea because it is the only answer to the problems we face and the building of a new world."

Bathing Suit Parade Banned

GRAYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 14—Grayville's modest maidens will not have to wear bathing suits to compete in this year's Tri-State Oil Show.

The committee in charge of the beauty queen contest has ruled that entrants in the Labor Day weekend competition will be judged as they appear in formal attire.

The committee said its ruling was made because in the past many prospective contestants shied away from displaying themselves in public in bathing suits.

Utah Pen Hit By New Riots

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 14—Utah state prison officials issued a call for peace officers today to help control rioting convicts.

First reports said a number of inmates had seized "several" guards and are holding them hostage in the prison.

The incident appeared to follow the same pattern set last June 20 when 300 prisoners rioted for four hours, holding seven guards. Since then Warden A. O. Severson and his successor, T. A. Callicott, have resigned.

Ohio Gets Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — A Defense Department release said today that Ohio received $1,449,442,000 worth of prime military contracts between July 1, 1950, and May 31, 1951.

Alarm Sounded For Escapee

PAINESVILLE, Aug. 14 — A statewide alarm is out for a 33-year-old man who escaped from the Lake County jail before he could be transferred to Ohio Penitentiary to serve a term for grand larceny.

Louis Walton of Painesville, who had been in jail since Jan. 20, used a piece of wire to open a locked cell door.

He had been sentenced to a one to seven year term in the penitentiary for breaking into a railroad freight car and stealing a refrigerator.

Akron Grabs Dope Peddler

AKRON, Aug. 14—Akron police today are investigating a man described by them as "one of the biggest narcotics peddlers in the city."

Police have charged William Humphreys, 32, with suspicion of narcotics possession and are holding him under $5,000 bail.

Humphreys was carrying a load of heroin from Cleveland to Akron, police said, but he threw it away just before he was arrested for speeding in Brecksville.

British Arms Program Irks Leftist Worker

LONDON, Aug. 14—A young British naval armament supply officer who became a Communist said today he has been suspended from his job.

Malcolm W. McGrath, 36, the senior armament supply officer at the Admiralty's Bath depot, said he was suspended with full pay and is awaiting reassignment to an "innocuous" position. He said:

"I joined the Communist Party in July, feeling it was the only party with a constructive policy for peace, and found my work at the Admiralty supplying arms for use against Chinese and Koreans incompatible with my views.

"There was a strong probability in the near future that I should be compelled to assist the rearmament of Germany and Japan which I bitterly opposed."

Official informants confirmed McGrath's suspension and said he would be assigned later to another department where security questions would not arise.

Madison Seeks To Replenish Its Bridge Fund

Madison Township board of trustees has received permission from the state board of tax appeals to file in Pickaway County common pleas court for transfer of funds from its general revenue fund into its road and bridge fund.

The board's petition seeks to have $2,000 from the general fund transferred into the road and bridge fund for necessary work.

According to the petition, the general account of the board as of May 1, contained $3,371.79 while its special road and bridge fund held only $446.49.

U.S. Considers Iran Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The State Department has disclosed it is considering a $25 million mutual aid project in Iran which would bring large uncultivated areas of that country into productive fertility.

Department Spokesman Michael J. McDermott explained that three fourths of the $25 million would be spent "in a village program" involving the provision of technical aid in all major phases of village life, such as agriculture, health, education and sanitation.

Sweden Grants Asylum To 12

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 14 — The Swedish foreign office has announced it has granted political asylum to the 12 Polish navy mutineers who locked up their Red officers Aug. 2 and landed in Sweden.

Poland recently notified Sweden it intends to request extradition of the men. The crewmen of a Polish minesweeper steered the ship into the port of Ystad, in Southern Sweden, and asked sanctuary from what they termed a "reign of terror" in their Communist-ruled homeland.

Replogle Files Low Road Bid

C. F. Replogle Construction Co. of Circleville has entered the low unchecked bid for a road and bridge project in Fairfield County.

The local firm entered a low bid of $162,817 for grading and paving 3,100 feet of Route 22 in Hocking Township and for construction of a 50-foot steel bridge ver Hunter Run.

Estimate of cost by the state for the project was $197,100.

THE UN BRIEFING officer, Brig. Gen. William F. Nuckols, said the Communist delegation refused Tuesday to answer an offer by Vice Adm. Charles Turner Joy to "adjust" the UN-proposed truce line and the width of the buffer zone.

Nuckols quoted Nam as saying UN air power did not affect Red strength and said the "temporary advantage" of air superiority was the only factor that "saved" the UN forces from defeat.

Nuckols quoted Joy as refuting Nam's arguments with the words:

"We are prosecuting the war behind your front lines which is not duplicated behind our lines.

"The present location of the front line is the result of the action of our ground forces combined with only a portion of our air and naval operations."

The remainder of the Allied air-naval forces, Joy pointed out, has been "devoted to military tasks which have an indirect, delayed effect on the position of the ground battle line."

Tuesday's meeting was the 14th in which the delegations have failed to end the stalemate over the vital issue of where to draw a cease-fire belt across Korea.

Commissioners OK Resurfacing Of County Roads

Pickaway County commissioners Monday authorized resurfacing of 22.3 miles of county roads at a cost not to exceed $23,289.89.

Longest single improvement to any of the four roads affected by the move is an 8.3-mile project to be completed on the Yankeetown-Dawson road.

Other resurfacing authorized by the panel includes 5.5 miles of the Circleville-Lockbourne road; 4.5 miles of the Clark Run road; and four miles of the Circleville-Tarlton Northern road.

Bids for the resurfacing contract are to be received in the commissioner's office in Pickaway Courthouse until noon Sept. 5.

Total amount of materials to be used in the resurfacing operation will be 78,496 gallons of road tar and 2,355 tons of crushed gravel.

Forestry Aides Holding Meet

ZALESKI, Aug. 14—Representatives of more than 20 state forestry associations are attending the second-day meeting today of the National Convention of State Forestry Association officials at Lake Hope State Park.

G. G. Ware of Leesburg, Fla., banker and chairman of the forestry committee of the American Bankers Association, opened the three-day confab yesterday pointing up the great stake which bankers and businessmen have in the nation's forest resources.

New York Plans Mock 'Attacks'

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—New York City has announced plans for an indefinite series of mock "surprise" atomic "attacks" to familiarize citizens in case the real thing comes.

The simulated "attacks" will begin in November, said Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, and "no one will have any way of telling whether it is a real attack or just a test."

He said the city hoped to plan "all out Civilian Defense strategy" from results achieved in the test runs.

What's A Cow Worth? Dairyman Tells His Story

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—What's a cow worth?

Illinois extension agents are passing along a story which doesn't give an answer to that question, but might help you to draw your own conclusions.

Here's the story, as told by an Illinois dairyman:

"There is more to a cow than meets the eye. Mere looks might be very deceiving.

"Take Number 56 in our herd. She's big and bulky — rather coarse looking, with an udder that would scarcely score 75. If I didn't know her better, I would sell her. The butcher might offer $300.

"By the end of her fourth year on dairy herd improvement test, she had earned for us $1,636.17 over cost of feed. She has given us five calves. Her daughters already are cows and are well on their way to outproduce Mom.

"Number 56 will live to produce for many more years. When her time is up, she will give us her body for meat.

Panel Urges OK Of Aid Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today criticized some European nations for failure to go all-out in anti-Communist defense buildups, but declared the U. S. aid program is "justified" and called for "maximum speed."

The committee report on the $7.8 billion military-economic aid bill which comes up on the House floor tomorrow warned that the assistance given Atlantic Pact allies to date is "insufficient to stop the initial attack."

Lad's Driving Spree Costly

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14 — It may be a long time before Pierre Fabien's dad lets him get behind the wheel of the family car again.

Pierre, 13, of University Heights, was showing a friend, Don Turner, also 13, how the ignition worked while they were sitting in the car in the Turner driveway.

When Pierre turned on the ignition and released the emergency brake, the car went through the open doors of the Turner garage, crashed out the back, hit a fence and ended up in a flower bed.

House Measure Raps At Czechs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The House today overwhelmingly approved a resolution urging the United States to sever trade relations with Czechoslovakia until that Communist government releases Newsman William Oatis.

The vote was 363 to 1, with Rep. Wood, (R) Idaho, casting the single no vote. Wood said the resolution is "ineffectual" and said he was in favor of "taking a battleship over there" if necessary to get the newsman out of the Communist country.

B-50 Crash Kills 11

industrial plants occupied by hundreds of workers.

The bomber had taken off from the Boeing airfield only a few minutes before the crash. Testimony of eyewitnesses indicated the big plane was flying at an altitude of 250 feet when it began to fall.

It was heading north toward midtown Seattle and flying directly over the solidly industrialized area fringing Boeing field.

Pilot-witnesses said the plane appeared to have no power. Untrained witnesses who saw the plane's props turning assumed the motors were functioning, but the expert witnesses said the props were just "windmilling."

Pilot Vanderwielin obviously attempted to "mush in" against a wooded hillside just beyond the apartment house. The building was the last obstacle he had to clear to come down in the only unpopulated area nearby.

Just a few blocks south of the crash in the industrial area of South Seattle, a similar disaster occurred Feb. 18, 1943, when another Boeing bomber struck a packing plant. Thirty-one persons lost their lives in that crash, including a number of workers trapped in the burning packing house.

Sarah Bowdle Will Is Filed

Will of Sarah Bowdle of New Holland has been admitted in Pickaway County probate court and value of the estate has been estimated at $2,641.61.

By terms of the will, a daughter, Dorothy Graham of Chicago, is to receive the residence property of the deceased in New Holland, while three grandchildren are to share equally in the residue of the estate.

Grandchildren named under the will are June Byrne, Rosalie Guenther and Sallie Moore.

Children's Home Is Quarantined

LEBANON, Aug. 14 — Warren County children's home is under quarantine today following the death of a 12-year-old girl believed to be a victim of meningitis.

The action followed a preliminary report by Dr. Frank Dutra of Cincinnati who is conducting an autopsy of Lorraine Cole. Dutra told Dr. Arch D. Harvey, Warren County health commissioner, the exact cause of the death will not be known until at least tomorrow. The 30 children who reside at the home where the Cole girl was stricken are under observation and are receiving a preventative treatment pending an autopsy report.

The cardinal, long a sports enthusiast, said that the presidents of Fordham university, Manhattan college and Iona college—all within his diocese—have consented, at his request, to accept the ousted cadets.

Of the dozen cadets who today become the first group to leave "The Point," several of them said they would consider the opportunity presented by the cardinal's announcement.

The parents of one cadet already have made application at Fordham.

Ashville Man Faces Extradition

Robert V. Perrill of near Ashville has been placed on $500 bond in Pickaway County common pleas court for 60 days pending an extradition cause.

Perrill has refused to waive extradition on an accusation of grand larceny issued on the authority of Stuyvesant A. Pinnell, chief of detectives in Mineola, N. Y.

New York authorities have 60 days in which to extradite Perril by applying to the governor of Ohio for a hearing and presenting their evidence.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

A definite possibility that the Communist Youth Festival in East Berlin will boomerang to the detriment of Soviet propaganda arose with disclosure that half of the delegates have made illegal "excursions" across the border into sectors occupied by the Western Allies.

Authorities in the Allied area expected that a certain number of the young Communists attending the meeting would make the border crossing.

But the total has exceeded all expectations. The latest estimate is that 250 thousand out of the less than half million who turned up for the festival have made their way to the western areas.

Between 100 and 200 are applying daily for permanent asylum. They are being advised to return to their homes unless their lives were jeopardized by the surreptitious visits.

BUT MORE than 700 have been accepted, a mere fraction of the total, to be sure, but the others may prove in the long run to be an invaluable asset to the Democratic cause.

Berlin dispatches have told of East German girls enjoying for the first time the luxury of nylon stockings; of young boys gorging themselves on ice cream and lollypops; of young women learning what real lipstick is, and of the general freedom of walking and living in a region that has no reason to fear a secret police.

It is inevitable that at least some of the quarter million young people who have skirted the Soviet barriers and crossed to the West will have stories to tell their compatriots.

And all indications at present are that they will be far from praiseworthy as regards the Communist system.

Ever since the days of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the first United States military governor of Germany, the Allies have done their best to make West Berlin a model of Democracy.

The task was difficult. Facilities were lacking and the population itself had a resentment over Allied air bombardments and military defeat which made it far from receptive to the adoption of a new code of life so alien to the aggressive imperialism it had known under Adolf Hitler.

BUT GRADUALLY the impression did gain ground that Nazi tyranny, or its Hohenzollern predecessor, had some better substitute.

The German people saw the Allied armies well-fed, free in thought and action, and by placing their workaday efforts on a cooperative basis, began to see a path to their own recovery.

This—according to all available information—has not taken place in the Soviet zone. If the young "tourists" from the Communist festival make truthful reports to their neighbors and kinfolk at home, the Red rally may turn out to have been in the last analysis a Western victory.

By choice or otherwise, the Soviets sent thousands of young people on a mission that has given them a chance to understand the western world and just how it operates.

Peron Orders Lush Limousine

DETROIT, Aug. 14—One of the auto world's best-kept secrets crawled into the open today in the story of an accessory-laden, Cadillac limousine ordered by Argentine Dictator Juan Peron.

A New York exporter reportedly made arrangements for Peron to have an $11,000 V-8, seven-passenger car equipped with:

Cowboy Cyclist Spans Nation, Has Troubles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14—Steve Gibson, 34-year-old guitar playing cowboy of Fitchburg, Mass., told newsmen his transcontinental bicycle trip from New York to Los Angeles was marked by one odd event.

That, he said, was the weather, Southern California style.

Gibson started the last leg of his trip yesterday from San Bernardino to Los Angeles and thought it would be cooler than trousers.

When he reached his destination he required emergency hospital treatment for severe sunburn he suffered on his legs and thighs.

He said he then began to "take his time" and completed the 3,000 mile journey in 65 days.

The guitar-strumming cowboy earned $400 to pay for the trip by playing and singing in hotels and bars along the way.

He added that the trek was marred by a single puncture.

Columbus Voters Going To Polls

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14—Columbus voters went to the polls today to pick nominees for mayor in a non-partisan primary election.

The name of the present two-term incumbent, Republican James A. Rhodes, is the only name printed on the ballot. However, seven others have announced write - in candidacies since the Democrats did not put up a candidate. The one with the most votes will oppose Rhodes in November.

Four city council posts and that of clerk of courts also are on the ballot.

Doctor Faces Taxation Claim

TOLEDO, Aug. 14—The Bureau of Internal Revenue has filed a tax lien totaling $129,773 against Dr. and Mrs. Roy A. Knisely and charged they failed to pay $77,081 in federal income taxes during 1947-48.

The lien was filed yesterday against the couple's real and personal property.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

A definite possibility that the Communist Youth Festival in East Berlin will boomerang to the detriment of Soviet propaganda arose with disclosure that half of the delegates have made illegal "excursions" across the border into sectors occupied by the Western Allies.

Authorities in the Allied area expected that a certain number of the young Communists attending the meeting would make the border crossing.

But the total has exceeded all expectations. The latest estimate is that 250 thousand out of the less than half million who turned up for the festival have made their way to the western areas.

Between 100 and 200 are applying daily for permanent asylum. They are being advised to return to their homes unless their lives were jeopardized by the surreptitious visits.

BUT MORE than 700 have been accepted, a mere fraction of the total, to be sure, but the others may prove in the long run to be an invaluable asset to the Democratic cause.

Berlin dispatches have told of East German girls enjoying for the first time the luxury of nylon stockings; of young boys gorging themselves on ice cream and lollypops; of young women learning what real lipstick is, and of the general freedom of walking and living in a region that has no reason to fear a secret police.

It is inevitable that at least some of the quarter million young people who have skirted the Soviet barriers and crossed to the West will have stories to tell their compatriots.

And all indications at present are that they will be far from praiseworthy as regards the Communist system.

Ever since the days of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the first United States military governor of Germany, the Allies have done their best to make West Berlin a model of Democracy.

The task was difficult. Facilities were lacking and the population itself had a resentment over Allied air bombardments and military defeat which made it far from receptive to the adoption of a new code of life so alien to the aggressive imperialism it had known under Adolf Hitler.

BUT GRADUALLY the impression did gain ground that Nazi tyranny, or its Hohenzollern predecessor, had some better substitute.

The German people saw the Allied armies well-fed, free in thought and action, and by placing their workaday efforts on a cooperative basis, began to see a path to their own recovery.

This—according to all available information—has not taken place in the Soviet zone. If the young "tourists" from the Communist festival make truthful reports to their neighbors and kinfolk at home, the Red rally may turn out to have been in the last analysis a Western victory.

By choice or otherwise, the Soviets sent thousands of young people on a mission that has given them a chance to understand the western world and just how it operates.

Peron Orders Lush Limousine

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Hardin College

An educator friend of mine, Dr. William T. Bean, of Butler, Pa., has just completed a six-month tour of Europe studying the economic and political aspects of life as lived today by the average European. At the end of his tour, he has written me from London:

"For a long time I have heard that an Englishman is the most independent man on earth; that 'his home is his castle'; and that he deeply resists interference with his personal liberties.

"Well, that is all gone now. Instead, he is about the most completely controlled individual imaginable in a democracy. And he is a perfect example of complete frustration."

The submission to control by the government bureaucracy is the price the Englishmen had paid for a long list of government handouts and props—including food and housing subsidies, payment of medical and hospital bills, and all the other welfare state "benefits." It isn't as good a bargain as he once thought. But he's stuck with it—and he'll be controlled as long as his dependency on government continues.

It couldn't be otherwise. Our own U. S. Supreme Court officially acknowledged a basic unwritten political law when, in 1942, it held:

"IT IS HARDLY lack of due process for the government to regulate that which it subsidizes." (Wickard vs. Filburn—317 US 111, Page 131.) Even the Bible says: "The borrower is servant to the lender." (Proverbs 22:7).

The English people reached their present state of control gradually. A long time ago they were offered their first government subsidy. The tiny bit of freedom they gave up for it was scarcely noticed as a loss. When they got used to this tiny crimp in their freedom, a second subsidy was offered. It too extracted only a minor degree of individual freedom. Bit by bit a new way of life was established—with government doing more and more for the individual and his independence gradually shrinking—but almost unnoticed.

When the Labor - Socialist government was voted in six years ago, the people by then felt the subsidy idea was okay.

And since then the government has let the growth of Socialism be gradual—as painless as possible. But it has already grown so far that the structure of freedom in England has probably been fatally injured. Dr. Bean says that even the Conservative Party fears that the necessary private wealth and incentive for restoring private enterprise have been dissipated to the vanishing point.

The people who are pushing America along the pathway followed by England are using the same technique—the bit by bit government subsidy and government control. It is insidious because here, as in England, the loss of the tiny bits of freedom go along unnoticed.

AND WHEN WE, who are speaking out in warning against this encroaching Socialism, are challenged to show where "anybody in America has lost any freedom in return for federal government aid," we must deal in fractions. It is only when the small fractions are added up that the total of lost freedom makes an impression and wakes people up. The problem is to awaken enough of them before it's too late.

The federal government, in the person of Security Administrator Oscar Ewing, has just decreed that the state of Indiana will henceforth be denied its portion of federal welfare funds which are granted to the states to supplement each one's payments to its welfare recipients.

Why? Because the peope of Indiana wanted to exercise their freedom of self-government by having qualified representatives examine the welfare rolls for the purpose of weeding out unjustified claimants and otherwise cutting down on the welfare load.

Their legislature passed a law opening the rolls to such inspection. If public security isn't permitted, politically - administered spending bureaus can run rampant with tax money.

But no! The people of Indiana didn't have this freedom. They had lost it when they accepted the federal welfare handouts. Ewing made it clear this freedom had been taken from them. If they accepted the federal money, he decreed, they would have to take the control that went with it, and keep their rolls secret. This kind of federal control and tiny loss of freedom exists in every state accepting federal funds. This is a small fraction. It is hardly noticed. But there are many, many other fractions. In next week's column, we will bring other fractional losses of freedom into focus and perhaps do a little adding up.

Artificial Lard Used To Help Keep Real Lard

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — A new methold to keep lard longer has been developed by the Agriculture Department, and scientists estimate it will save farmers thousands of dollars each year.

Home-rendered lard, which is usually made in Fall and Winter when the hogs are butchered, keeps well though the cold season. But unless the farmer has a cool storage place, any lard on hand in the following Summer is likely to become rancid.

Rancid lard not only tastes bad, but can actually be harmful—since it can destroy essential vitamins in other foods.

Scientists estimate that 500 million pounds of lard are made on farms each year, and ten percent—50 million pounds—is lost to food uses because of rancidity.

Now, this homemade lard can be kept fresh and edible twice as long, simply by adding a little hydrogenated vegetable shortening, sold under various trade names. This is done at the time the lard is made. About two or three pounds of shortening to 50 pounds of lard will do the job.

Many farmers and local custom butchers have already started to use the method, with good results.

Ike Sets No Figure For Troops

General Studying Needs From U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Senators reported today that Gen. Eisenhower has made no recommendation on the number of U. S. troops to be sent to Europe because this question is still under study by his headquarters in Paris.

The troops issue arose in connection with the administration's proposed $8.5 billion foreign aid bill on which a Senate committee is working. The bill includes $6.3 billion for equipping Eisenhower's Atlantic defense forces.

Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who visited Europe in July quoted Eisenhower as saying that if he needs more than the six U. S. divisions now planned, he will ask for them.

Eisenhower's chief of staff, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, was asked during his recent trip to this country for an estimate on how many U. S. troops would be sought for European defense.

Gruenther is said to have replied, "we haven't as yet the slightest idea. Our headquarters is pursuing the question and has made no recommendations."

DEFENSE Secretary Marshall testified recently that 400,000 U. S. troops would be sent to Europe. This was twice the number the Senate was under the impression would be dispatched when the troops issue was debated.

A foreign relations subcommittee which visited Europe quoted Eisenhower as saying the strength of the free world was so much greater than that of Iron Curtain countries "that is is almost ridiculous for us to be talking in terms of fright and hysteria, which we often do."

But Eisenhower stressed that the Soviet bloc has unity which the free world is not matching. He conceded that the unity is attained by a "gun and a sword held forever behind a man's back ready to chop off his head."

Robber Yanks Trolley Wire

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—Chicago police are looking for an armed robber who stopped a street car by yanking the trolley off the overhead wire.

Motorman - Conductor Pryde Fields, 41, reported that when he investigated he was forced to hand over $60.

UN Is Labeled Shield Against Red Aggression

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 14—Secretary of State Acheson has called the United Nations "a shield against aggression" and believes that it "is standing firmly against international outlawry."

Acheson spoke to the World Assembly of Youth, which is now meeting in Ithaca, over a special telephone wire.

He told the delegates that without the UN "we would not have the opportunity to carry on the creative and constructive efforts toward a better world which is our principal purpose."

Acheson declared that freedom "is the keystone of all genuine progress toward a better world." He added:

"It is tragic that many people have followed the road to regimentation, thinking that it offered a short-cut to progress.

"Even if police state societies really offered material progress in exchange for freedom, it would not be worth it.

'But by now it should be clear to all that the path of regimentation can lead only backward—to tyranny, to servitude, to the degradation of man. There can be no progress without freedom."

Europe Shows Some Fatalism

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—RCA Board Chairman David Sarnoff returned to New York yesterday from a two-month European tour and reported he found "a good deal of fatalistic thinking about the future."

Sarnoff also declared there was "an apparent lethargy about rearmament" in many parts of Europe.

The RCA executive talked with Gen. Eisenhower and Winston Churchill during the tour and labeled Eisenhower's task of building european defense "a harder one than he had during the last war."

"Why Our Family owns 13 Dodge cars!"
"I was first in our large family to own a Dodge," says Frank Perrotti, Woodbridge, Conn. "But it didn't take long for the rest of the Perrotti family to follow suit. Yes, once they saw my Dodge, rode in it, compared it with the cars they were driving, they all began to swing over to Dodge. Today our family owns 13 Dodge cars and 11 Dodge trucks . . . and that's saying plenty for Dodge value and dependability."
Specifications and equipment subject to change without notice
You could pay up to $1,000 more and not get all the extra room, riding comfort and famous dependability of Dodge
ONCE you get a taste of Dodge roominess and comfort . . . once you see Dodge bigger dollar-for-dollar VALUE . . . your good judgment tells you that here is the car for you and your family!
New Riding Comfort
Today you want a car that's built to last . . . one that saves you money mile after mile. And you want comfort, too. You want a car that protects you from bumps and jolts—even over back country roads or detours. With the new Dodge Oriflow Ride, bumpy roads, ruts and chuck holes magically melt away. Wheels stay on the ground . . . no wheel "hop" . . . no back seat bounce. You literally "float" down roads that stop other cars!
Don't Take Our Word
Get behind the wheel. Feel the relaxing comfort of Dodge knee-level seats. Note the extra head room, elbow room and shoulder room. Sample Dodge easy handling, in traffic and on the open road.
Then judge for yourself. See if you don't agree that you could pay up to $1,000 more for a car and still not get everything today's big Dodge gives you.
DODGE DEPENDABILITY VALUE
A "MAGIC-MILE" DEMONSTRATION RIDE WILL PROVE DODGE EXTRA VALUE AND DEPENDABILITY!

Feeling Is Believing! You sit and ride in comfort in a Dodge. None of that crowding in, cramped up feeling. There's loads of elbow room, plenty of stretch-out leg room and head room.
Spend Five Minutes, Save $1,000! Come in for a five-minute "Magic-Mile" demonstration ride. Let us prove you could pay up to $1,000 more and still not get everything Dodge gives you!

FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

THAT legendary trip to the moon may not be so legendary as supposed, after what happened the other day at White Sands, N. M. From the Navy proving grounds, scientists sent a rocket to an altitude of 135 miles. It was a new record for a single-stage rocket.

This is not the greatest penetration of space. A two-stage rocket soared 250 miles. But this latest test established the record for rockets of the single-stage class—that is, a rocket which derives its drive from a single burst of power. In that one blazing burst, lasting 75 seconds, four tons of liquid oxygen and alcohol were consumed. The resultant energy propelled the rocket 25 miles. Thereafter it "coasted" the remaining 110 miles.

The test rocket climbed at the rate of one mile a second, required only four minutes, 33 seconds to reach its peak. At this speed a trip to the moon would require approximately 60 hours, which is less than the time required to travel from New York to California by the fastest trains.

But the men who sent the Viking into the skies over New Mexico were not preparing specifically for exploratory conquests of space. This was a Navy experiment, a project of the Naval Research Laboratory. Its primary and grim purpose was to develop guided missiles which can be launched not to the moon, but against the cities, industries, inhabitants and armies of attacking nations.

This was the seventh test at White Sands. Two more in the series were to come. Since scientists began to take over from the admirals and generals, the first line of defense is no longer on continents and oceans, but in space.

THAT'LL STOP 'EM

AMERICAN embassy officials in Moscow have found it impossible to pass Russian tests for licenses because they would have to be expert mechanics to get drivers' permits. The idea, of course, is to force American diplomatic employees to hire Russian spies as chauffeurs.

In retaliation the State Department asked the District of Columbia to tighten up the tests for Russian embassy officials. A member of the Russian embassy staff flunked the new test, but retnrned and passed it on the second try.

The problem obviously is how to be beastly to the Russians without annoying the representatives of other countries. It should be simple. Just ask red applicants to write a 25-word essay about how the automobile industry proves the excellence of the capitalistic system.

These Days

The decision of the Supreme Court, in the cases involving the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., International Workers Order, Inc., is extremely important. These organizations sought their deletion from the attorney general's list of subversive organizations. Lower courts had upheld the attorney general; the Supreme Court held that these organizations had a right to sue for such deletion.

Justice Burton, who gave the majority opinion, said:

"To defend such a designation of them, on the basis of the complaints alone, is an assertion of presidential authority so to designate an organization at the option of the attorney general without reliance upon either disclosed or undisclosed facts supplying a reasonable basis for the determination. It is that, and only that outer limit of the authority of the attorney general that is now before us."

Further, he said:

"The organizations to be designated on that list are not limited to those having federal employes in their memberships. They may even exclude such employes from membership. Accordingly, the impact of the attorney general's lists is by no means limited to persons who are subject to the employes loyalty program."

The Supreme Court is only supposed to deal with what has been placed before it and therefore, if no one called the attention of the learned brethren to the facts of life, they are not expected to know anything about them. For instance, Hede Massing, Louis Budenz, Whittaker Chambers and others have testified under oath that they were part of Communist apparatuses outside the government, under the control of Soviet Russia, which were actually engaged in efforts to infiltrate our government, in which they succeeded in specific cases.

There is ample evidence of this kind of activity in the files of the FBI, the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities, and now the McCarran committee, to establish the validity of the attorney general's list. What the Supreme Court has actually done is to open the door for each of these organizations—there are several hundred—to go into court to force a hearing on whether their names should or should not be on the list.

Maybe that is the only just way to do it. Justice Burton says:

"The acts of the attorney general and the loyalty review board, purporting to be taken by them under authority of the executive order, have seriously and irreparably impaired, and will continue to so impair, the reputation of the organization and the moral support and good will of the American people necessary for the continuance of its charitable activities."

That is precisely what the list is designed to do. In the case of one of these organizations, the International Workers Order, Inc., I have before me the brief prepared by Paul W. Williams, special counsel for the insurance department of the state of New York, which successfully sought to put this organization out of the insurance business. The brief shows:

"Are you a man or a mouse?—Squeak up!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Causes of Jaundice Varied

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE body has a special and complicated system for disposing of the iron-containing pigments which color the blood when they are freed by the destruction of old red blood cells—a process which goes on more or less constantly. There are a good many points at which the process can go off, thus releasing these pigments into the general circulation and causing them to be deposited in the skin and membranes of the body to bring about the yellowish discoloration known as jaundice.

From this, it is easy to see that the causes of jaundice are varied. Since the liver plays a major role in the process mentioned above, jaundice due to liver disorders is probably the most common type, and is usually associated with inflammation or hardening of this important organ.

Liver Damage

Jaundice due to inflammation of the liver usually is caused by a virus infection. However, it may be due to liver damage resulting from the ingestion of certain drugs, such as carbon tetrachloride, phosphorus, or chloroform.

In the form caused by liver infection, jaundice may occur three months after a blood transfusion or may develop without warning. Usually fever, chills, and extreme yellow color of the skin, with enlargement and tenderness of the liver, are present. These cases are generally treated by employing a high carbohydrate (starches and sugars) and high protein diet.

Certain substances, such as methionine and choline, have been discovered to be of benefit in this condition. Some favorable results have been reported with the use of antibiotics, such as aureomycin, chloramphenicol, and terramycin. In most cases, the disease itself is limited and disappears as time progresses.

Defective Cells

Another type of jaundice is caused by defective red blood cells, which are smaller than the normal ones and are round in shape. As a result, these red blood cells are extremely fragile and rupture easily. This disease is seen frequently in many children; an enlarged spleen usually accompanies this disorder.

Another form of jaundice, known as post-liver jaundice, is caused by an obstruction to the normal flow of the bile from the liver and gallbladder to the intestines. This obstruction to the flow of bile may be either partial or complete. It is usually caused by either a stone in the tube or duct between the gallbladder and the intestines, or a tumor of the duct or the structures around the duct.

Very frequently, a tumor of the head of the pancreas is the cause of post-liver jaundice. This condition is best treated by surgery so that the obstruction to the flow of bile, which is responsible for the jaundice, is removed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. D. N.: Is there any cure for giant hives and what causes them?

Answer: Giant hives are a form of allergy. The cure for this condition consists in finding the substances to which the individual is sensitive and desensitizing him against the offending substances. Anti-histamine drugs are helpful in relieving the symptoms.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

TEX regained consciousness not long after Frick had left, but no one told Tonto. Jess Ide doctored the boy again and that was as much as anyone could do for him. Sometime in the night Tonto awoke, on the sofa.

He felt horrible, brain fogged, thirsty. He groped his way to the kitchen, stumbling a couple of times over shadows. His thirst quenched, he went to the bedroom and undressed to drop off to sleep again almost instantly.

But it wasn't restful. He had dreams that kept him twisting and turning. Frick's face would loom close, seemingly within inches, and then fade far away when he tried to strike out with his fist. But it seemed that Tonto had to hit that face. It had something very important to do with Lois King, but Tonto could not determine what it was. He chased the leering face with all his might, but always Frick remained elusive just ahead of him—and laughed.

Tonto awakened with a sense of relief. He proceeded leisurely to dress. He went out to the bunkhouse but Tex was sleeping and Tonto didn't want to disturb him. He came back after a big breakfast at the cookshack while the crew rode out under Jess Ide's orders.

Tex was awake when Tonto returned. He tried to grin but it ended in a wince. Tonto rolled a cigaret, stuck it in the boy's mouth and lit it. Tex inhaled gratefully.

"Frick and me," Tex said at last, "had trouble. Maybe I ought to say I had the trouble and Frick passed it out."

"You got a heap to learn, Tex."

"Of course, I knew he could whip me! But I couldn't just take the raw deal he was trying to hand out. The crew wouldn't have worked with me after that. Frick would never have let up, either."

Tonto nodded, understanding. "Frick's gone—permanent."

"Off the payroll, maybe. But you'll see more of him."

"I expect it," Tonto agreed. He smoked for a while. Tex painfully shifted. "Once before," he said reminiscently, "I got into a fight with a segundo. Won that one, too—only I got fired."

Tonto grinned, knowing what the young puncher meant. He shook his head. "Don't be a fool. You're still on the payroll. But don't make a habit of fighting segundos. It's no good."

"Who takes over?" Tex said abruptly.

"How long you aim to work here?" Tonto said, disregarding the question. Tex looked surprised.

"I dunno. A long time, I reckon. Leastaways as long as you'll keep me on the payroll."

"No itchy feet? No wanting to go out yonderly to see what's there?"

"Now that's a hard question, Tonto. I might someday, of course. But, none of us knows what we'll be doing a year from now—or even if we'll be doing at all."

"Read the brand as it stands," Tonto said flatly. Tex gave him a wondering look, stared up at the top of the bunk for a long time, brows knotted.

"Right now, I'd say Tex Jonas thinks a heap of the home range, meaning the Slash S. I've done a little prowling, but I don't like it too well. I get around, but right at home."

"At your age I'd traveled considerable," Tonto said absently. "Kept right on until I came to the Slash S."

"That's you. I never quit a job yet." Tex grinned wryly. "I've always been fired."

"You're young Tex," Tonto said. He leaned back and caught his lifted knee in his locked hands. "You know a lot but there's a heap more you've got to learn about ranching."

"I can ride, rope and brand—" He stopped when Tonto shook his head.

"Not that kind of learning. You're a top hand now. But you've got to learn the way an owner thinks. You got to start learning the price of winter feed, and about the markets. You've got to savvy freight rates and shipping points."

"I'll never own a spread!"

"Me!" Tex jerked upright and sank back with a groan.

"That's why I sort of wanted to know about you. Frick's gone and I'm putting Jess Ide in his place. Jess is old but he'll make a good segundo if I read him right."

"The best!" Tex cut in loyally.

"Sure. But if you were older, Tex, and had more savvy, you'd have the job. I want you to start getting yourself ready for it. You'll follow Jess here at the Slash S." Tonto broke off, shrugged and smiled. "—if I have the Slash S at the end of two years."

"Rick Staples," Tex murmured. He stared across the room and out the windows. "You'll take care of that, Tonto."

"Sure," Tonto arose. "You get back in the saddle as soon as you can. Start watching and asking questions. Jess and I'll both answer 'em for you. Take it easy."

Tonto left the bunkhouse. He checked with the cook on supplies and then went to the ranch house. He entered the little office and sank down at the desk. He looked through the window at the high hills and wished that he could be riding through them. With a sigh, he reached for the ledger Bradley had brought, opened it, and picked up a pen. Only the faint scratch of the point broke the silence of the little room.

Tonto remained close to the Slash S for the next few days. Tex continued to improve and, on the second day, was in the saddle again. He rushed things, but Tonto said nothing, knowing how the young puncher would feel about being confined to a bunk.

Toward the end of the week Tonto rode to Avrillo again. He had not heard anything from Frick since the man had been driven from the Slash S, but Tonto felt certain he would be in town. There was a good chance for trouble.

However, he rode by the Golden and saw no one. He pulled in before the General Store and spent some time there in lazy talk while he gave his order. Sid Harper took the list, glanced up at Tonto.

"I reckoned he would be."

"He's been talking a heap," Sid went on, "and making it pretty loud. I gathered you fired him." Tonto nodded, nothing more. "I don't think Frick's all blow, Tonto."

"Where is he now?"

"Don't exactly know. Heard he rode out this morning. Don't forget him—now or any time."

"Thanks, Sid, I'll watch. I'll pick this up later."

His intrigues against the United States government during World War I and those of his associates were exposed by a female British secret agent and they were expelled from the country. For 10 years he was a member of the Prussian Diet, and President Paul von Hindenberg made him chancellor of Germany. After Adolf Hitler became chancellor he served for a time as vice-chancellor, then was appointed ambassador to Austria, where he negotiated the Austrian-German agreement which ended Austria's independence. During World War II, he was ambassador to Turkey at Ankara. When the war ended he was captured by American soldiers and imprisoned. He was tried at Nuernburg, acquitted of crime, and now lives in Europe. Who is he?

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Joyce Matthews

NEW YORK—The recent whimsical adventures of a flashy blonde named Joyce Matthews, who kept a bored and humid city entertained for a day or so by rushing into Billy Rose' bathroom one Sunday afternoon and sawing so energetically at her wrists with a razor blade than one (1) stitch was taken, turned the spotlight briefly on a section of Manhattan that, all in all, is more esoteric than the Black Mass.

Miss Matthews we can dispose of swiftly. God knows what fancied or real neuroses plague her, and it is not the intention here to ridicule anyone who tries to end it all. However, as any good police doctor can tell you, if you really have it in mind, it's the easiest thing in the world.

More than one ambulance interne has told me disgustedly after being confronted with an overdose-of-sleeping tablets case, "She had no intention of doing it. Look at her being ill in a corner there. All she wanted was to attract attention."

However, this latest morbidly amusing episode occurred in Rose' apartment in the Ziegfeld theater at Sixth avenue and 54th street—in the heart of the upper Broadway area.

Broadway, of course, no longer is considered just a street, but is an area—bounded roughly by 40th street on the south, 59th on the north and Fifth and Eighth avenues on east and west. Within this noisy and garish playground, fame is won, bodies are sold and countless millions of gallons of orange juice are drunk. And the the residents of its upper reaches—say, from 50th to 59th—are a bizarre collection.

THEY ARE ALL MEN. There is a woman or two here and there, but most of the native residents are male and they all wear white-on-white shirts. They all chew cigars and they all have ulcers. They are ageless—technically from 25 to 65, but all stamped with that strange eager cynicism that marks their kind.

Their clothes are expensive and their shoes are suede. Every one of them has at least one hot tip on a horse that will be going one of these weeks. Some of them are businessmen, some are show people and some just exist by no visible means. Meaning, they are bookies.

The odd part about their life is that the area they live in is, in its way, as provincial and small-townish as Goose Creek, Tex. Everybody knows everybody else. Barbers, acrobats, delicatessen owners, press agents—when one of them has a toothache, all upper Broadway knows it.

When he gets money, he moves to the Park Sheraton hotel, at 56th and Seventh, and sits arounnd the lobby all day with an unlighted cigar in his mouth. However, he never goes high-hat; it seems ridiculous, to him, to do so.

Billy Rose, for example, is not a true upper Broadwayite even if he does have an apartment and a theater in the middle of the area. His country house up in Westchester disqualifies him. "I bet he ain't within two miles of a delicatessen," one upper Broadwayite told me, giving Rose the kiss of death. Life can't be lived without a delicatessen.

UPPER BROADWAY IS A NEST of strange and wonderful characters, underneath the overall uniform. I remember one of the few women I ever saw in the area. I was leaving a poker game in the Hotel Wellington at 4:30 one morning and, while waiting for an elevator, I looked across an areaway and saw the most beautiful and nudest blond I ever had seen. She was sitting on the edge of a bed, smoking a cigar.

The upper Broadwayite never scrambles to stay abreast of the social tide. He's there automatically. It is part of life. If there's a new show, he's seen it; if there's a good new movie, he's seen it twice. If there's a good book—no, no, that's carrying it a bit far.

He is nervous and calm, learned and ignorant, impressionable and blase. He belongs to a strange band of bravos, herded together in a square mile like so many buffalo, and he is, all things considered, the loneliest man in the world.

Rupert Hughes claims he knows the origin of kissing. "A prehistoric man," avers Hughes, "discovered one day that salt helped him survive the fierce Summer heat. He also discovered he could get the salt by licking a companion's cheek. The next thing he observed was that the process became ever so much more interesting when the companion belonged to the opposite sex. First thing you know, the whole tribe had forgotten all about salt."

Sean O'Casey, the Irish dramatist, was introduced one evening to Novelist Paul Gallico, whose ancestors hail from Italy. O'Casey was uncommonly cordial all evening. When he arose to depart the reason became clear. He clapped Paul on the back and boomed, "Fine to have met you, Mr. Gallagher."

FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE

THAT legendary trip to the moon may not be so legendary as supposed, after what happened the other day at White Sands, N. M. From the Navy proving grounds, scientists sent a rocket to an altitude of 135 miles. It was a new record for a single-stage rocket.

This is not the greatest penetration of space. A two-stage rocket soared 250 miles. But this latest test established the record for rockets of the single-stage class—that is, a rocket which derives its drive from a single burst of power. In that one blazing burst, lasting 75 seconds, four tons of liquid oxygen and alcohol were consumed. The resultant energy propelled the rocket 25 miles. Thereafter it "coasted" the remaining 110 miles.

The test rocket climbed at the rate of one mile a second, required only four minutes, 33 seconds to reach its peak. At this speed a trip to the moon would require approximately 60 hours, which is less than the time required to travel from New York to California by the fastest trains.

But the men who sent the Viking into the skies over New Mexico were not preparing specifically for exploratory conquests of space. This was a Navy experiment, a project of the Naval Research Laboratory. Its primary and grim purpose was to develop guided missiles which can be launched not to the moon, but against the cities, industries, inhabitants and armies of attacking nations.

This was the seventh test at White Sands. Two more in the series were to come. Since scientists began to take over from the admirals and generals, the first line of defense is no longer on continents and oceans, but in space.

THAT'LL STOP 'EM

AMERICAN embassy officials in Moscow have found it impossible to pass Russian tests for licenses because they would have to be expert mechanics to get drivers' permits. The idea, of course, is to force American diplomatic employees to hire Russian spies as chauffeurs.

In retaliation the State Department asked the District of Columbia to tighten up the tests for Russian embassy officials. A member of the Russian embassy staff flunked the new test, but retnrned and passed it on the second try.

The problem obviously is how to be beastly to the Russians without annoying the representatives of other countries. It should be simple. Just ask red applicants to write a 25-word essay about how the automobile industry proves the excellence of the capitalistic system.

Much is said about controlling gambling, but no one knows what to do about the man buying a canteloupe.

These Days

The decision of the Supreme Court, in the cases involving the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Inc., International Workers Order, Inc., is extremely important. These organizations sought their deletion from the attorney general's list of subversive organizations. Lower courts had upheld the attorney general; the Supreme Court held that these organizations had a right to sue for such deletion.

Justice Burton, who gave the majority opinion, said:

"To defend such a designation of them, on the basis of the complaints alone, is an assertion of presidential authority so to designate an organization at the option of the attorney general without reliance upon either disclosed or undisclosed facts supplying a reasonable basis for the determination. It is that, and only that outer limit of the authority of the attorney general that is now before us."

Further, he said:

"The organizations to be designated on that list are not limited to those having federal employes in their memberships. They may even exclude such employes from membership. Accordingly, the impact of the attorney general's lists is by no means limited to persons who are subject to the employes loyalty program."

The Supreme Court is only supposed to deal with what has been placed before it and therefore, if no one called the attention of the learned brethren to the facts of life, they are not expected to know anything about them. For instance, Hede Massing, Louis Budenz, Whittaker Chambers and others have testified under oath that they were part of Communist apparatuses outside the government, under the control of Soviet Russia, which were actually engaged in efforts to infiltrate our government, in which they succeeded in specific cases.

There is ample evidence of this kind of activity in the files of the FBI, the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities, and now the McCarran committee, to establish the validity of the attorney general's list. What the Supreme Court has actually done is to open the door for each of these organizations—there are several hundred—to go into court to force a hearing on whether their names should or should not be on the list.

Maybe that is the only just way to do it. Justice Burton says:

"The acts of the attorney general and the loyalty review board, purporting to be taken by them under authority of the executive order, have seriously and irreparably impaired, and will continue to so impair, the reputation of the organization and the moral support and good will of the American people necessary for the continuance of its charitable activities."

That is precisely what the list is designed to do. In the case of one of these organizations, the International Workers Order, Inc., I have before me the brief prepared by Paul W. Williams, special counsel for the insurance department of the state of New York, which successfully sought to put this organization out of the insurance business. The brief shows:

DIET AND HEALTH

Causes of Jaundice Varied

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE body has a special and complicated system for disposing of the iron-containing pigments which color the blood when they are freed by the destruction of old red blood cells—a process which goes on more or less constantly. There are a good many points at which the process can go off, thus releasing these pigments into the general circulation and causing them to be deposited in the skin and membranes of the body to bring about the yellowish discoloration known as jaundice.

From this, it is easy to see that the causes of jaundice are varied. Since the liver plays a major role in the process mentioned above, jaundice due to liver disorders is probably the most common type, and is usually associated with inflammation or hardening of this important organ.

Liver Damage

Jaundice due to inflammation of the liver usually is caused by a virus infection. However, it may be due to liver damage resulting from the ingestion of certain drugs, such as carbon tetrachloride, phosphorus, or chloroform.

In the form caused by liver infection, jaundice may occur three months after a blood transfusion or may develop without warning. Usually fever, chills, and extreme yellow color of the skin, with enlargement and tenderness of the liver, are present. These cases are generally treated by employing a high carbohydrate (starches and sugars) and high protein diet.

Certain substances, such as methionine and choline, have been discovered to be of benefit in this condition. Some favorable results have been reported with the use of antibiotics, such as aureomycin, chloramphenicol, and terramycin. In most cases, the disease itself is limited and disappears as time progresses.

Defective Cells

Another type of jaundice is caused by defective red blood cells, which are smaller than the normal ones and are round in shape. As a result, these red blood cells are extremely fragile and rupture easily. This disease is seen frequently in many children; an enlarged spleen usually accompanies this disorder.

Another form of jaundice, known as post-liver jaundice, is caused by an obstruction to the normal flow of the bile from the liver and gallbladder to the intestines. This obstruction to the flow of bile may be either partial or complete. It is usually caused by either a stone in the tube or duct between the gallbladder and the intestines, or a tumor of the duct or the structures around the duct.

Very frequently, a tumor of the head of the pancreas is the cause of post-liver jaundice. This condition is best treated by surgery so that the obstruction to the flow of bile, which is responsible for the jaundice, is removed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. D. N.: Is there any cure for giant hives and what causes them?

Answer: Giant hives are a form of allergy. The cure for this condition consists in finding the substances to which the individual is sensitive and desensitizing him against the offending substances. Anti-histamine drugs are helpful in relieving the symptoms.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

TEX regained consciousness not long after Frick had left, but no one told Tonto. Jess Ide doctored the boy again and that was as much as anyone could do for him. Sometime in the night Tonto awoke, on the sofa.

He felt horrible, brain fogged, thirsty. He groped his way to the kitchen, stumbling a couple of times over shadows. His thirst quenched, he went to the bedroom and undressed to drop off to sleep again almost instantly.

But it wasn't restful. He had dreams that kept him twisting and turning. Frick's face would loom close, seemingly within inches, and then fade far away when he tried to strike out with his fist. But it seemed that Tonto had to hit that face. It had something very important to do with Lois King, but Tonto could not determine what it was. He chased the leering face with all his might, but always Frick remained elusive just ahead of him—and laughed.

Tonto awakened with a sense of relief. He proceeded leisurely to dress. He went out to the bunkhouse but Tex was sleeping and Tonto didn't want to disturb him. He came back after a big breakfast at the cookshack while the crew rode out under Jess Ide's orders.

Tex was awake when Tonto returned. He tried to grin but it ended in a wince. Tonto rolled a cigaret, stuck it in the boy's mouth and lit it. Tex inhaled gratefully.

"Frick and me," Tex said at last, "had trouble. Maybe I ought to say I had the trouble and Frick passed it out."

"You got a heap to learn, Tex."

"Of course, I knew he could whip me! But I couldn't just take the raw deal he was trying to hand out. The crew wouldn't have worked with me after that. Frick would never have let up, either."

Tonto nodded, understanding. "Frick's gone—permanent."

"Off the payroll, maybe. But you'll see more of him."

"I expect it," Tonto agreed. He smoked for a while. Tex painfully shifted. "Once before," he said reminiscently, "I got into a fight with a segundo. Won that one, too—only I got fired."

Tonto grinned, knowing what the young puncher meant. He shook his head. "Don't be a fool. You're still on the payroll. But don't make a habit of fighting segundos. It's no good."

"Who takes over?" Tex said abruptly.

"How long you aim to work here?" Tonto said, disregarding the question. Tex looked surprised.

"I dunno. A long time, I reckon. Leastaways as long as you'll keep me on the payroll."

"No itchy feet? No wanting to go out yonderly to see what's there?"

"Now that's a hard question, Tonto. I might someday, of course. But, none of us knows what we'll be doing a year from now—or even if we'll be doing at all."

"Read the brand as it stands," Tonto said flatly. Tex gave him a wondering look, stared up at the top of the bunk for a long time, brows knotted.

"Right now, I'd say Tex Jonas thinks a heap of the home range, meaning the Slash S. I've done a little prowling, but I don't like it too well. I get around, but right at home."

"At your age I'd traveled considerable," Tonto said absently. "Kept right on until I came to the Slash S."

"That's you. I never quit a job yet." Tex grinned wryly. "I've always been fired."

"You're young Tex," Tonto said. He leaned back and caught his lifted knee in his locked hands. "You know a lot but there's a heap more you've got to learn about ranching."

"I can ride, rope and brand—" He stopped when Tonto shook his head.

"Not that kind of learning. You're a top hand now. But you've got to learn the way an owner thinks. You got to start learning the price of winter feed, and about the markets. You've got to savvy freight rates and shipping points."

"I'll never own a spread!"

"Me!" Tex jerked upright and sank back with a groan.

"That's why I sort of wanted to know about you. Frick's gone and I'm putting Jess Ide in his place. Jess is old but he'll make a good segundo if I read him right."

"The best!" Tex cut in loyally.

"Sure. But if you were older, Tex, and had more savvy, you'd have the job. I want you to start getting yourself ready for it. You'll follow Jess here at the Slash S." Tonto broke off, shrugged and smiled. "—if I have the Slash S at the end of two years."

"Rick Staples," Tex murmured. He stared across the room and out the windows. "You'll take care of that, Tonto."

"Sure," Tonto arose. "You get back in the saddle as soon as you can. Start watching and asking questions. Jess and I'll both answer 'em for you. Take it easy."

Tonto left the bunkhouse. He checked with the cook on supplies and then went to the ranch house. He entered the little office and sank down at the desk. He looked through the window at the high hills and wished that he could be riding through them. With a sigh, he reached for the ledger Bradley had brought, opened it, and picked up a pen. Only the faint scratch of the point broke the silence of the little room.

Tonto remained close to the Slash S for the next few days. Tex continued to improve and, on the second day, was in the saddle again. He rushed things, but Tonto said nothing, knowing how the young puncher would feel about being confined to a bunk.

Toward the end of the week Tonto rode to Avrillo again. He had not heard anything from Frick since the man had been driven from the Slash S, but Tonto felt certain he would be in town. There was a good chance for trouble.

However, he rode by the Golden and saw no one. He pulled in before the General Store and spent some time there in lazy talk while he gave his order. Sid Harper took the list, glanced up at Tonto.

"I reckoned he would be."

"He's been talking a heap," Sid went on, "and making it pretty loud. I gathered you fired him." Tonto nodded, nothing more. "I don't think Frick's all blow, Tonto."

"Where is he now?"

"Don't exactly know. Heard he rode out this morning. Don't forget him—now or any time."

"Thanks, Sid, I'll watch. I'll pick this up later."

He became Navy undersecretary, the first former army pilot to head the navy. He now holds the Navy secretarial post. What is his name?

2—This German statesman was born in Werl, Germany, on Oct. 29, 1879. His family was a noble one. He attended military school, was put in command of a battalion as a lieutenant of cavalry, but later promoted. In 1914, he was appointed German military attache to the United States. His intrigues against the United States government during World War I and those of his associates were exposed by a female British secret agent and they were expelled from the country. For 10 years he was a member of the Prussian Diet, and President Paul von Hindenberg made him chancellor of Germany. After Adolf Hitler became chancellor he served for a time as vice-chancellor, then was appointed ambassador to Austria, where he negotiated the Austrian-German agreement which ended Austria's independence. During World War II, he was ambassador to Turkey at Ankara. When the war ended he was captured by American soldiers and imprisoned. He was tried at Nuernburg, acquitted of crime, and now lives in Europe. Who is he?

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Joyce Matthews

NEW YORK—The recent whimsical adventures of a flashy blonde named Joyce Matthews, who kept a bored and humid city entertained for a day or so by rushing into Billy Rose' bathroom one Sunday afternoon and sawing so energetically at her wrists with a razor blade than one (1) stitch was taken, turned the spotlight briefly on a section of Manhattan that, all in all, is more esoteric than the Black Mass.

Miss Matthews we can dispose of swiftly. God knows what fancied or real neuroses plague her, and it is not the intention here to ridicule anyone who tries to end it all. However, as any good police doctor can tell you, if you really have it in mind, it's the easiest thing in the world.

More than one ambulance interne has told me disgustedly after being confronted with an overdose-of-sleeping tablets case, "She had no intention of doing it. Look at her being ill in a corner there. All she wanted was to attract attention."

However, this latest morbidly amusing episode occurred in Rose' apartment in the Ziegfeld theater at Sixth avenue and 54th street—in the heart of the upper Broadway area.

Broadway, of course, no longer is considered just a street, but is an area—bounded roughly by 40th street on the south, 59th on the north and Fifth and Eighth avenues on east and west. Within this noisy and garish playground, fame is won, bodies are sold and countless millions of gallons of orange juice are drunk. And the the residents of its upper reaches—say, from 50th to 59th—are a bizarre collection.

THEY ARE ALL MEN. There is a woman or two here and there, but most of the native residents are male and they all wear white-on-white shirts. They all chew cigars and they all have ulcers. They are ageless—technically from 25 to 65, but all stamped with that strange eager cynicism that marks their kind.

Their clothes are expensive and their shoes are suede. Every one of them has at least one hot tip on a horse that will be going one of these weeks. Some of them are businessmen, some are show people and some just exist by no visible means. Meaning, they are bookies.

The odd part about their life is that the area they live in is, in its way, as provincial and small-townish as Goose Creek, Tex. Everybody knows everybody else. Barbers, acrobats, delicatessen owners, press agents—when one of them has a toothache, all upper Broadway knows it.

When he gets money, he moves to the Park Sheraton hotel, at 56th and Seventh, and sits arounnd the lobby all day with an unlighted cigar in his mouth. However, he never goes high-hat; it seems ridiculous, to him, to do so.

Billy Rose, for example, is not a true upper Broadwayite even if he does have an apartment and a theater in the middle of the area. His country house up in Westchester disqualifies him. "I bet he ain't within two miles of a delicatessen," one upper Broadwayite told me, giving Rose the kiss of death. Life can't be lived without a delicatessen.

UPPER BROADWAY IS A NEST of strange and wonderful characters, underneath the overall uniform. I remember one of the few women I ever saw in the area. I was leaving a poker game in the Hotel Wellington at 4:30 one morning and, while waiting for an elevator, I looked across an areaway and saw the most beautiful and nudest blond I ever had seen. She was sitting on the edge of a bed, smoking a cigar.

The upper Broadwayite never scrambles to stay abreast of the social tide. He's there automatically. It is part of life. If there's a new show, he's seen it; if there's a good new movie, he's seen it twice. If there's a good book—no, no, that's carrying it a bit far.

He is nervous and calm, learned and ignorant, impressionable and blase. He belongs to a strange band of bravos, herded together in a square mile like so many buffalo, and he is, all things considered, the loneliest man in the world.

Rupert Hughes claims he knows the origin of kissing. "A prehistoric man," avers Hughes, "discovered one day that salt helped him survive the fierce Summer heat. He also discovered he could get the salt by licking a companion's cheek. The next thing he observed was that the process became ever so much more interesting when the companion belonged to the opposite sex. First thing you know, the whole tribe had forgotten all about salt."

Sean O'Casey, the Irish dramatist, was introduced one evening to Novelist Paul Gallico, whose ancestors hail from Italy. O'Casey was uncommonly cordial all evening. When he arose to depart the reason became clear. He clapped Paul on the back and boomed, "Fine to have met you, Mr. Gallagher."

Phyllis Annette Quinn, Marshall Blenn Cupp Are Wed In West Jefferson

Lawn Reception Follows Ceremony

Before an altar banked with palms and ferns Miss Phyllis Annette Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Quinn of London became the bride of Marshall Blenn Cupp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Cupp of Circleville Route 2.

The rites were read at 7:30 p. m. August 11, by the Rev. G. W. Ely in West Jefferson Methodist church. The choir loft of the church was also decorated with white gladioli for the event.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a ballerina length gown of white chantilly lace. An elbow length veil falling from a matching lace Juliet cap and long lace mitts completed her costume. She carried a white lace handkerchief in addition to the bridal bouquet of white Esther Reed daisies. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and matching earrings.

The bride chose as maid of honor, Miss Roberta Karbel of Columbus who wore a gown of pale blue chantilly lace and a headdress of yellow Esther Reed daisies fashioned as a halo. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of the same daisies.

Carl Cupp, brother of the bridegroom served as best man and guests were seated by another brother, Nelson Cupp and cousin, Mavis Marshall, all of Circleville.

Bridal music was played by organist, Mrs. John Smart and vocalist was Miss Rosalee Shumaker.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn adjoining the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Jackson, aunt and uncle of the bride, of West Jefferson. A buffet style wedding supper was served to 125 guests from a table set with silver and crystal centered by a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Cupp was attired in navy blue crepe with navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink glamelias.

For a wedding trip to the East coast, the new Mrs. Cupp changed to a cream sharkskin suit with black accessories. She was wearing a shoulder corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The former Miss Quinn is a graduate of Grant hospital School of Nursing and is employed as a supervisor in Grant hospital. The bridegroom was graduated by Ohio university where he became a member of Acacia fraternity. He is employed as coach in West Jefferson high school.

Burbank Story Told At Meeting Of Solaqua Club

A biography of Luther Burbank was the topic used by Mrs. James Hott in addressing members of Solaqua Garden Club which met in the home of Mrs. Charles Rager Friday.

Mrs. Hott, speaking of Burbank as "the greatest botanist of all time" stated that he had introduced more than 600 varieties of plants, the best known being the Burbank potato and the Shasta daisy.

She also said, "The patience of Burbank made it possible for him to discard thousands of seedlings and perhaps start all over again, year after year, until he found a plant that measured up to his idea of excellency."

Mrs. Harry Trump presided at the business session and Mrs. Cecil Ward, club secretary, gave a resume of the club's activities during her incumbency.

Twenty - one members and guests were served refreshments during the social hour. Just preceding the close of the meeting, Miss Miriam Ward played two piano solos.

The Near East— Next Red Victim?

By KINGSBURY SMITH
Europe Manager, International News Service

Editor's Note: Communist agents in the Near East are making enormous and at least partially successful efforts to infiltrate the ranks of students in the Arab nations and their method is bitter attack against the United States and Israel. The full extent of Red propaganda in this vital and danger-ridden area of the world is told in the following article, second of a series.

ANKARA, Aug. 14—A Soviet-directed Cold War offensive is swinging into high gear in the Near East today.

It has, according to American and other Western diplomats on the scene, a two-fold purpose.

Its short range objective is to make one of the world's most vitally important strategic areas a quicksand of chaos for the Western Powers.

Its ultimate aim is to achieve in this region a bloodless victory for Russia in the great power politics struggle between East and West.

An army of secret agents of Communist imperialism is accomplishing the first objective in this offensive by fanning the flames of Arab religious and nationalist fanaticism.

THESE AGENTS are encouraging opposing forces in the various Near Eastern countries who have hatched wild plots for power through creation of Arab blocs.

Evidence obtained by Western intelligence sources show that these agents are acting through direct contact with the fanatic elements in the bazaars, back alleys, universities and curb-stone cafes of the Arab cities, towns and villages.

Red propaganda is also being spread through underground literature, pamphlets, leaflets and Arabic broadcasts from Russia, Romania and Bulgaria.

This propaganda concentrates on putting salt in the wound of Arab resent ment over Western, and especially American, support for establishment of Israel.

The Arabs are being told by the Communists that the United States established Israel as an agency for the eventual domination of Arabia.

Great Britain is accused by the Communists of having committed a sin by favoring creation of a national home for the Jews in Palestine.

The United States is held "guilty" of supporting partition of Palestine between the Jews and the Arabs, and responsible for keeping Israel economically alive in the face of the Arab boycott which might other wise cause the Jewish state to collapse.

WESTERN diplomats believe this Communist propaganda has had an important bearing on inciting Arab fanatics to terrorism.

As part of the Cold War offensive, the Communists are striving to destroy British and American influence in the Near East. They are intensifying their efforts to persuade Egypt, Iraq and other Arab countries to challenge traditional British supremacy in the area.

The Communist campaign in Egypt is directed at separating that country from the Western World and developing in it a spirit of neutralism.

Communist agents are spreading the word that the British army in the Suez Canal zone is completely incapable of defending Egypt in the event of a third world war.

They are telling the Egyptians that if they permit their territory to be used by the British for military bases, Egypt will be destroyed in case of war.

On the other hand, the Egyptians are being led to believe that if Egypt adopts a policy of neutrality in the world struggle, Russia will facilitate the reorganization of the Egyptian army on a modern basis.

The Communists promise that Russia will send Eastern German military experts to train the Egyptian army while the armament factories of the Soviet satellite states will furnish weapons.

The Arab people generally are further being told by the Communists that the Western Allied plan to strengthen the security of the Near East is a trick to restore British and French Colonial domination of the area.

Poverty, disillusionment with the West and ignorance of what Soviet domination would mean for them makes the people of the Near East ripe for this Red propaganda.

Sweltering Texas Phone Workers Stage Walkout

DALLAS, Aug. 14—About 570 Southwestern Bell Telephone workers in Dallas walked off the job yesterday in protest of a lack of a cooling system in the buildings where they are employed.

Those who left are members of the Communications Workers of America, CIO.

T. E. Webb, Texas director of the CWA, called the strike "unauthorized" and "spontaneous." He said some 1,500 workers would be involved if the strike lasted through all shifts.

Company officials said the buildings are well ventilated and the company's contract with the union provides "a method for the orderly handling of grievances."

The company also reminded that the "present heat wave in Texas is uncomfortable for people of all walks of life."

Highest temperature reading in Dallas last week was 107. It was 87 degrees when the workers walked out.

Reds Plan Attending Peace Talks

Japan's Fate Due For Discussions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Russia has decided to send a delegation to San Francisco in September to participate in the Japanese peace conference.

The delegation will include Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Soviet Ambassador to the U.S. Alexander S. Panyushkin, G. N. Zarubin, Soviet ambassador to Great Britain, and S. A. Golunsky, of the foreign office.

The Russians advised the U.S. State Department only they would attend and gave no indication they would sign the treaty.

All comments from Moscow since last Spring indicate that a Russian delegation would appear in San Francisco only to oppose the U.S.-British proposed treaty draft.

Russia consistently has maintained that a Japanese peace treaty can be written only by the Pacific big five, which, in addition to the U.S., Russia, Britain and France, would include Red China.

WASHINGTON previously announced that neither Nationalist China nor the Chinese Communist regime will be present.

The U.S. and Britain on July 20 invited Russia and 50 other nations which declared war on Japan to attend the Sept. 4 conference.

The Soviet Union's acceptance makes a total of 25 nations which definitely will be present at the San Francisco meeting.

The State Department said that U.S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk in Moscow was called to the Soviet foreign office Sunday and presented a brief note announcing Russia's intention to send a delegation.

Poland and Czechoslovakia, the only two Soviet satellites on the invitation list, have yet to reply, but the Moscow decision made it obvious they also would send delegations.

700 Families Due To Arrive At Lockbourne

Rental homes and apartments for men of the 91st Strategic Reconnaissance Wing arriving at Lockbourne Airforce Base within the next 45 days are urgently needed.

The base commander, Colonel George W. Humbrecht, has appealed to the civilian communities near the base for furnished and unfurnished two and three bedroom listings.

"There are at least 700 families arriving," the colonel stated, "and these people must be placed in suitable living quarters."

The colonel pointed out that the first families are expected to arrive Saturday and that the largest influx will occur about Sept. 1.

"Naturally, apartments and homes that are most accessible to the base are preferred," the clonel continued.

"We hope that all those who have such homes and apartments available will notify their realtors who in turn will contact the base."

Colonel Humbrecht said there is no need for rooms for bachelors. The base has adequate facilities for its unmarried personnel.

Sister Kenny 'Incurably Ill'

SYDNEY, Aug. 14 — Sister Kenny, a leading crusader in the fight against infantile paralysis, declared today that she is incurably ill but went ahead with plans to attend the international poliomyelitis conference in Copenhagen.

The world-famed nurse, scheduled to leave Australia Thursday for the United States enroute to the September Copenhagen conference, said:

"I am incurably ill and have little time left in this world. I can only hope I will be spared the time to return home again."

Editors' Roundtable

"Editors Roundtable" is a twice-a-week release based on a study of an average of about 150 daily newspaper editorial pages. The major issue of the day is analyzed and digested, passed on to readers as a survey of opinion from the nation's leading editors. It is the "voice of the press."

COUNTERING PROPAGANDA

Editors, in large majority, approve the State Department's prompt rejection of Russia's latest suggestion for a five-power peace and disarmament conference. Many editors in this group add that such rejection should be followed up by other moves to show the world clearly again that the Russian proposal is still only propaganda. To a considerable minority of editors a conference such as Russia suggests would be the best method of exposing her repeated plan as propaganda. And a smaller minority feels that our basic policy toward Russia requires, at least, a more thorough study of all Russian moves.

PROVIDENCE Journal (Ind.): "We think the State Department is making a serious mistake in attempting to shrug off Russia's new 'peace' proposal as 'pure propaganda.' Of course it is propaganda. . . But is that any reason to let the propaganda succeed, the distortion pass unchallenged, the bluff go uncalled? . . . The Kremlin's overture was not directed primarily at the United States. It was aimed mainly at the peace-hungry peoples of Europe and Asia. By shunting it aside in off-hand fashion, we simply add conviction to the Soviet argument that peace is the last thing in the world we want."

FORT WORTH Star-Telegram (Ind.-Dem.): "The rejection of the Soviet proposal for a five-power discussion of peace and disarmament was the only course open to the State Department. If it represents a defeat in propaganda, in the sense that the U.S.S.R. can contend it again has offered a way to peace and we have refused to consider it, it can not be helped. . . . Another big power conference would serve no purpose except that of Soviet propaganda. If the Soviet Union is sincerely desirous of peace, a forum for bringing it about exists in the organization of the United Nations . . . ."

LOUISVILLE Courier-Journal (Ind.-Dem.): "The Soviet offer is well timed to sow doubt and confusion in the minds of our allies, and to slow down our already lagging approach to rearmament. . . . But all we have to do to expose its dangers is to accept it at face value, to accede to the conference plan and to take up one by one the causes of world tension. If the Soviet Government is in earnest, its attitude will have changed toward the most irreconcilable of these issues. If it is dissembling, its evasions will be exposed."

NEW ORLEANS Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "The Kremlin employed a new mouthpiece, Soviet 'President' Shvernik, in this latest 'peace offensive,' but there is practically nothing new in the plan he suggests. . . . The very purpose of holding a five-power meeting would be to by-pass the United Nations and to bring Red China into a desired position of negotiatory strength. The old Russian offer of arms limitations has been demonstrated as completely impracticable without international inspection."

BIRMINGHAM News (Ind.-Dem.): "Our policy toward Russia has been based on the conception that Moscow may join in real negotiations to ease tension and reduce the danger of war if, confronted by vast strength prepared to resist aggression, it sees that its own interests would be served by a broad settlement. It does appear that there is nothing new in the communication from the Russian president, but . . . . in quest of such a settlement, every Russian move bearing on the situation should be explored thoroughly."

ST. PAUL Pioneer Press (Ind.): "The State Department could find nothing new in the Soviet government's proposal for a five-power pact and acted with decision. . . . Identically the same proposal was made twice before. This suggests that the Kremlin had nothing more serious in mind than to raise a dust storm under cover of which to comply with President Truman's request . . . to make known to the Russian people the resolution of friendship and wishes for peace adopted by Congress in June. This request was ignored for a month but evidently the policy of suppression backfired."

PHILADELPHIA Inquirer (Ind.): "Because this latest Russian offer was designed as a propaganda maneuver, the State Department cannot rest with the simple rejection that the proposal calls for on its face. The rejection must be followed up with moves both to take full advantage of this new demonstration of the gap between Soviet words and deeds, and to counteract undoubted propaganda value the gesture will have in many parts of the world. . . . The Russians want to make it appear that Russia is eager for 'talks' which could lead to real peace, while the United States is holding back."

Pasture Seed Need Stressed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — Agriculture Secretary Brannan urged the nation's farmers today to harvest all available hay and pasture seed to assure future supplies of forage for expanding livestock production.

While stressing the need to back up meat supplies, the secretary also pointed out that erosion control and other conservation benefits are equally important in the long run.

Brannan declared that the present heavy draft on feed grain reserves makes it imperative to boost hay production in 1952. Previous production guides have called for 900,000 acres of alfalfa, 2,000,000 acres of red clover and 100,000 acres of ladino clover—all for seed production.

County's Retail Trade Slumps July 28 Week

Business in Pickaway County suffered a setback during the week ending July 28, according to a report of prepaid sales tax purchases by the state auditor.

Only $3,978.38 worth of prepaid tax stamps were sold in the county during that week this year, while the figure for a corresponding week last year was $7,702.97.

In addition, the sales stamp purchases for this year up to that date totalled only $16,681.61, while last year stamp sales here brought $24,250.06.

For the state as a whole, largest single proportionate decrease this year compared to last year's tax sales figures was in the sale of food. Last year a total of $146,007.68 worth of stamps were sold for the week ending July 28, while this year's figure is only $127,384.93.

Another decrease noted was in sale of automotive products such as vehicles, oil and garage work. This year's figures list sales at $746,183.03 while last year's figures were $997,005.03.

Only in sale of apparel do this year's state figures exceed those set last year. This year's tax sales for apparel total $120,222.83 while last year's were $113,864.29.

Editors' Roundtable

"Editors Roundtable" is a twice-a-week release based on a study of an average of about 150 daily newspaper editorial pages. The major issue of the day is analyzed and digested, passed on to readers as a survey of opinion from the nation's leading editors. It is the "voice of the press."

COUNTERING PROPAGANDA

Editors, in large majority, approve the State Department's prompt rejection of Russia's latest suggestion for a five-power peace and disarmament conference. Many editors in this group add that such rejection should be followed up by other moves to show the world clearly again that the Russian proposal is still only propaganda. To a considerable minority of editors a conference such as Russia suggests would be the best method of exposing her repeated plan as propaganda. And a smaller minority feels that our basic policy toward Russia requires, at least, a more thorough study of all Russian moves.

PROVIDENCE Journal (Ind.): "We think the State Department is making a serious mistake in attempting to shrug off Russia's new 'peace' proposal as 'pure propaganda.' Of course it is propaganda. . . But is that any reason to let the propaganda succeed, the distortion pass unchallenged, the bluff go uncalled? . . . The Kremlin's overture was not directed primarily at the United States. It was aimed mainly at the peace-hungry peoples of Europe and Asia. By shunting it aside in off-hand fashion, we simply add conviction to the Soviet argument that peace is the last thing in the world we want."

FORT WORTH Star-Telegram (Ind.-Dem.): "The rejection of the Soviet proposal for a five-power discussion of peace and disarmament was the only course open to the State Department. If it represents a defeat in propaganda, in the sense that the U.S.S.R. can contend it again has offered a way to peace and we have refused to consider it, it can not be helped. . . . Another big power conference would serve no purpose except that of Soviet propaganda. If the Soviet Union is sincerely desirous of peace, a forum for bringing it about exists in the organization of the United Nations . . ."

LOUISVILLE Courier-Journal (Ind.-Dem.): "The Soviet offer is well timed to sow doubt and confusion in the minds of our allies, and to slow down our already lagging approach to rearmament. . . . But all we have to do to expose its dangers is to accept it at face value, to accede to the conference plan and to take up one by one the causes of world tension. If the Soviet Government is in earnest, its attitude will have changed toward the most irreconcilable of these issues. If it is dissembling, its evasions will be exposed."

NEW ORLEANS Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "The Kremlin employed a new mouthpiece, Soviet 'President' Shvernik, in this latest 'peace offensive,' but there is practically nothing new in the plan he suggests. . . . The very purpose of holding a five-power meeting would be to by-pass the United Nations and to bring Red China into a desired position of negotiatory strength. The old Russian offer of arms limitations has been demonstrated as completely impracticable without international inspection."

BIRMINGHAM News (Ind.-Dem.): "Our policy toward Russia has been based on the conception that Moscow may join in real negotiations to ease tension and reduce the danger of war if, confronted by vast strength prepared to resist aggression, it sees that its own interests would be served by a broad settlement. It does appear that there is nothing new in the communication from the Russian president, but . . . . in quest of such a settlement, every Russian move bearing on the situation should be explored thoroughly."

ST. PAUL Pioneer Press (Ind.): "The State Department could find nothing new in the Soviet government's proposal for a five-power pact and acted with decision. . . . Identically the same proposal was made twice before. This suggests that the Kremlin had nothing more serious in mind than to raise a dust storm under cover of which to comply with President Truman's request . . . to make known to the Russian people the resolution of friendship and wishes for peace adopted by Congress in June. This request was ignored for a month but evidently the policy of suppression backfired."

PHILADELPHIA Inquirer (Ind.): "Because this latest Russian offer was designed as a propaganda maneuver, the State Department cannot rest with the simple rejection that the proposal calls for on its face. The rejection must be followed up with moves both to take full advantage of this new demonstration of the gap between Soviet words and deeds, and to counteract undoubted propaganda value the gesture will have in many parts of the world. . . . The Russians want to make it appear that Russia is eager for 'talks' which could lead to real peace, while the United States is holding back."

Pasture Seed Need Stressed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 — Agriculture Secretary Brannan urged the nation's farmers today to harvest all available hay and pasture seed to assure future supplies of forage for expanding livestock production.

While stressing the need to back up meat supplies, the secretary also pointed out that erosion control and other conservation benefits are equally important in the long run.

Brannan declared that the present heavy draft on feed grain reserves makes it imperative to boost hay production in 1952. Previous production guides have called for 900,000 acres of alfalfa, 2,000,000 acres of red clover and 100,000 acres of ladino clover—all for seed production.

County's Retail Trade Slumps July 28 Week

Business in Pickaway County suffered a setback during the week ending July 28, according to a report of prepaid sales tax purchases by the state auditor.

Only $3,978.38 worth of prepaid tax stamps were sold in the county during that week this year, while the figure for a corresponding week last year was $7,702.97.

In addition, the sales stamp purchases for this year up to that date totalled only $16,681.61, while last year stamp sales here brought $24,250.06.

For the state as a whole, largest single proportionate decrease this year compared to last year's tax sales figures was in the sale of food. Last year a total of $146,007.68 worth of stamps were sold for the week ending July 28, while this year's figure is only $127,384.93.

Another decrease noted was in sale of automotive products such as vehicles, oil and garage work. This year's figures list sales at $746,183.03 while last year's figures were $997,005.03.

Only in sale of apparel do this year's state figures exceed those set last year. This year's tax sales for apparel total $120,222.83 while last year's were $113,864.29.

KAESONG PRESS CLUB MEETS

And Then They Went Home To Become Enemies Again

KAESONG, Aug. 14—The full crew of "reception personnel" turned out today to greet the largest number of United Nations news correspondents to appear in Kaesong since the Imjin river flood washed away the hastily-built pontoon bridge.

Ten correspondents made their way to Kaesong by ferrying across the Imjin in assault craft and then proceeding by truck to the conference site.

And awaiting their arrival was the Communist group of "reception personnel."

It was like a meeting of old friends of the Kaesong Press Club.

There were the tweedledum-tweedledee twins — pro-Communist newsmen Wilfred Burchett and Allan Winnington, who once again were more than willing to disclose what they claimed were the latest Allied demands at the conference table.

THERE WAS teen-age Miss Pak, the North Korean Wac interpreter, who giggled as she read an American news magazine.

There was the Communist newsreel man who gazed avidly at his photograph which appeared in an American magazine.

And there were the two North Korean soldiers who hastily threw down the same copy of the magazine when they realized an American photographer was attempting to take their picture.

The receptionists did their job well. All was sweetness, light and friendliness.

Only a few yards away, men were debating whether a way could be found to end a war that had taken the lives of more than a million people in a little over a year. And because they hadn't yet agreed, only five miles away it was legal to murder.

But the war seemed absent outside the "peace pagoda" where the newsmen awaited.

London Daily Worker Correspondent Winnington laughed when he recalled the British correspondent who turned up in Kaesong yesterday with his "old school tie" wrapped sash-like around his waist.

Two Chinese newsmen discussed the possibility of peace in Korea just as they used to talk about the possibilities of an end to World War II when they covered the war against Japan. Only this time they were covering the war from opposite sides.

BURCHETT, the Australian-born newsman who represents the leftist Paris newspaper "Ce Soir," told how he waited impatiently for the conference to resume during the six-day recess last week—and avoided the heat by showering in a natural waterfall.

Photographers and newsreel men from both sides overcame the barrier of language, compared cameras and discussed the relative merits of German and Japanese lenses.

It was just like a press club meeting anywhere in the world.

Except that when the delegates finished their meeting, the press club also adjourned. And everyone went back home and became enemies again.

Small Towns Get Warning On Civil Defense

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Federal Civil Defense officials have warned that small towns which neighbor big cities would have to supply much of the manpower and equipment needed to cope with an atom bomb attack.

The warning came in an announcement of new Civil Defense plans for using the resources and strength of these smaller communities in "mutual aid assistance" and "mobile support."

Civil Defense authorities pointed out an enemy will most likely try for targets which will "pay off" for costly expenditures of planes, bombs and men.

The planners are countering this with ideas for community defense planning, aimed at reducing casualties and damage to a minimum.

Key to the plan is a "defense and dept" or "web" system to be set up in each of the nation's 54 prime target areas.

The prearranged mutual aid plan will dispatch supplies and help, such as firefighters, rescue teams, first aid crews, radiological monitors, and others to designated areas on the outskirts of the target, ready to go to work immediately.

Piggy Bank 'Deposit' Lost

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—John Dombromilsky, 55, of Cleveland, may believe today that a bank is a better place in which to keep money than a box or piggy bank.

Dombromilsky reported to police that more than $4,000 in cash and about $140 in traveler's checks was stolen from his home while he was on a trip to Canton.

He said $3,000 of the cash was kept in a box in the kitchen and the remainder in a piggy bank. The burglar entered the kitchen by cutting a screen on a rear porch door.

Russia Protests Curbs By U.S.

FLUSHING MEADOW, Aug. 14—Russia has protested in the name of the World Peace Council against the United States' refusal to admit a delegation to New York to present a "peace" petition to UN.

The protest, originally drafted at the Communist-led peace council's session at Helsinki last month, was circulated as a UN document over the signature of Acting Soviet Delegate Semen K. Tsarapkin. It referred to the U. S. rejection of a request last June by French Communist Frederic Joliot-Curie, head of the peace council, that a delegation be received at UN headquarters to demand "peace."

COLUMBUS MAN LOSES 38 LBS. THANKS RENNEL

"I am a former Fire Captain of the City of Columbus and had been told by my doctor that I was far over my natural weight," writes Lisle R. Reece, 800 Heyl Ave., Columbus 6, Ohio. "Since taking Rennel I have lost 35 lbs. and about 4 inches off my waistline. I plan to continue with Rennel as I still must take off 15 more pounds."

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Put More Living In Life, 4-H Club Advisers Told

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14 — "Let's put more living into life," R. Bruce Tom, extension rural sociologist, challenged the annual 4-H Advisers' Conference at Ohio State university this week.

Tom put life into his talk with such comments as: "Some of the worst old maids I've known are married and are men.

"No doubt you have met individuals who died at 20 to 30 years but are still walking around at 60—taking up valuable space and blocking all social and economic progress. These people never become a real 4-H adviser, home council member, farm organization or church leader in their community."

He told the advisers from some 70 counties that the spirit must be kept alive to avoid this walking deadness. "To keep this spirit alive, we must start early in life. We can't always hope to turn on the faucet of enjoyment later in life unless we started to fill the tank earlier.

"A correct mental stance will help to keep the spirit flexible. To those of us who are very directly concerned with leisure, recreation and the arts of living for peoples, it is vital.

"THIS AGE of standardized amusements — radio, television, movies, nightclubs — and extreme commercialization in leisure and recreation makes it easy for us to take our living by proxy." Tom said there is a tendency to go along with the crowd and to become indifferent to many fine things to hear, do and say that will add to life.

The challenged the group to retain the flexibility of youth and to season it with experience. "Experience is what you do with what happens to you."

"We will stay alive as long as we live if we take care to stay flexible — physically, mentally, socially and spiritually. Our leisure and recreation must be put on the same level of importance as education and making a living."

Tom stressed the importance of fun in life. "Have you had your fun today, should be taking its place alongside—have you had your vitamins today?" He said if work makes the world go round, "It's fun that keeps the axle greased."

Tom charged the advisers with the responsibility of providing opportunities for enjoyable, creative and wholesome use of time to all age groups.

Three guides he listed were: Provide activities for self-selection and choice; provide opportunity for year-round participation, and make it easy for individuals to discover worthwhile things for themselves.

OTHER SPEAKERS on the conference program included C. M. Ferguson, director of Agricultural Extension at the university, and Dr. John Porterfield, Ohio director of health.

Dr. Porterfield advised the group to prepare to live with danger. He stressed the importance of organization under Civil Defense and public health programs—to be prepared for disaster. He pointed out that disaster could come from enemy attack, from accidents due to modern mechanization or from disease epidemics.

Ferguson said the United States is in a position of world leadership today. Practical education as well as natural resources and hybrid vigor in the population has contributed to the nation's standing. He challenged the advisers to promote more complete understanding of the educational needs of our young people as they grow into leaders of the next generation.

35 Are Killed In Bus Plunge

BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 14—A gay trip to international boat races near the Swiss border ended in death for 35 Italians yesterday when their bus plunged 30 feet from a highway into a lake.

Only one woman survived the tragedy which occurred when the bus lost one front wheel and went over a cliff.

37 Million Tons Coal Produced In Ohio In '50

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14 — The state industrial relations department reported today that 37 million tons of coal were mined in Ohio in 1950.

This represented a 20.14 percent increase over 1949, a year of labor disputes and other industry troubles, when only about 31 million tons were mined.

Strip mining amounted to 60.6 percent of all coal mined in Ohio in 1950, continuing its steady rise from 52.4 percent in 1948 and 58.3 percent the following year.

Belmont County was the top producer, accounting for 8,331,998 tons, about 22 percent of all coal mined in the state. Other leading counties were Harrison, 5,659,971 tons; Jefferson, 5,107,824 tons; Perry, 3,261,991 tons; Tuscarawas, 2,274,528 tons; Noble, 2,027,850 tons; Muskingum, 1,888,432 tons; Columbiana, 1,422,479 tons, and Stark, 1,020,379 tons.

He Doesn't Want His Name Listed

He wants his ex-wife's name to appear in the phone directory as Gilbert, Mrs. Rose and not as it now does: Gilbert, Mrs. Joseph B.

Cripple-Killer Being Sought

The body of the victim, John Bennett, was found near the shack where he lived alone in neighboring West Farmington.

One side of his head was bashed in. Coroner Michael Cristo said the elderly man was beaten to death with a four by four piece of lumber and evidently never had a chance to defend himself.

The coroner said Bennett was sitting outside his shack sewing a garment when he was slain. Bennett was said to have carried large sums of money with him, but his wallet was not found.

Lad's Death Brings Probe

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—Cleveland Heights police today are seeking clews to the death of a 13-year-old boy found hanging from a rafter in an abandoned gas station.

The body of the victim, Richard Tanno, was found in the station last night. The boy's head was covered with a greasy rag and his feet were hanging in the lubrication pit.

Vegetable Crop Tonnage To Run Close To 1950

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Agriculture Department experts expect lower production for two-thirds of the nation's vegetable crops this Summer, but total output will still be nearly as large as last year.

They report Summer onions will make the biggest tonnage drop because of slightly smaller acreage and yields far below last year's record levels.

Lettuce will make the second biggest decline, with cabbage third.

However, reductions for other crops are not expected to be much larger in terms of Summer tonnage. Total production is estimated at 3.4 million tons, about one percent less than last year.

The only Summer crops with a larger production than 1950 will be celery, sweet corn, spinach, tomatoes and watermelons. Watermelon eaters can look forward to a new record commercial harvest of nearly 81.9 million melons this Summer.

These important crops accounted for about one-third of last year's Fall tonnage. Now, combined production prospects for the three are down by 15 percent.

Premonition Held By Man

BOSTON, Aug. 14 — Patrick O'Toole, 43, of Chicago, who had a premonition of death, was drowned Sunday while swimming off Castle Island in Boston Harbor.

O'Toole, who was vacationing in South Boston, told a friend, Mrs. Bridget Mealey of South Boston, that he wanted to be buried in All Saints cemetery in Chicago "if anything happens to me while I'm on vacation."

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

For every mother there's the problem of cultivating good elimination habits in her child. Proper diet for the youngster, poise and gentle persuasive powers in the mother and her ability to hew to routine are her major means of success. Accordingly, she seeks the guidance of her physician and follows his directions faithfully.

It is amazing at how early an age some mothers can train the child to keep dry and tidy. But a great many mothers begin toilet training far too early.

Failing to succeed as they think they should, they grow anxious and nervous over the matter and, in consequence, less patient with the youngster who, in turn, grows more resistant and less cooperative.

Some young mothers begin toilet training too early and grow panicky over their supposed failures because they hear some other mothers bragging over their very early achievements at toilet training. If these successful mothers only knew the harm they did, they would quit their bragging. One of the biggest barriers to success at training the child well in toilet habits is the dread of social disapproval. This fear in turn renders the unsuccessful mother less able to succeed.

EVERY MOTHER should try to face this matter sensibly, take stock of her resources, and proceed accordingly, never allowing herself to accuse herself for supposed incompetence. After all, it's her own business, and the more objectively she can consider the matter, the better she will eventually succeed. (My bulletin, "Training Child in Toilet Habits," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper.)

A few simple principles are important: to study the child's rhythm of urinating and bowel evacuation; to get him on the nursery chair or "toidy" regularly at the most favorable moments; and to get him there without his resistance, but with his agreeable and cooperative attitude. This requires great poise, patience and skill in the mother. Preventing stubbornness in him in connection with this series of experiences depends largely on how well his cheerful cooperation can be won in all other situations. Let me repeat a warning I have often made: Aim to avoid rebuke and punishment in connection with the child's eating and elimination.

Success in the early stages of toilet training helps prevent problems of constipation then and later. While proper diet and routine are essential for bowel evacuation regularly (at any age), emotional well-being and relaxation are important, sometimes the most important, factors. And as you and I know, it's the emotional poise of the mother that does most to promote emotional poise in the child.

Answering Parents' Questions

Q. What's a good way to accustom a baby beginning to walk to bumps and scratches?

A. By always letting him pick himself up, in case he can, and betraying no emotion in yourself. Sometimes also by telling him how brave he is, believing it. While kissing and cuddling can be temporary help for little hurts, they tend to foster fears and over-dependence.

THE FIRST PUBLIC SHOWING of Le Sabre, an experiment in the automotive future, in the United States will be at the Michigan State fair, Lansing, Aug. 31-Sept. 9. The custom-built two seater was in development four years at General Motors. It is purely experimental, is powered by an experimental V-8 engine and its dual fuel system utilizes premium fuels and methyl alcohol (methanol). The 3,000-pound car is 36¼ inches high at the cowl and 50 inches high with the convertible top raised. Top section of the front grille is part of the lighting system. When the front lights are turned on, the grille revolves out of sight. The top can be raised partially to permit riders to get in and out more easily. (International)

No Price Lids On Beef At Ohio State Fair

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14—In this day of omni-present price ceilings, there remains today one haven for the uninhabited who would shoot the works on one single deal—the Ohio State Fair.

It's amazingly simple. There are no price ceilings on the cattle to be sold there as prize winners Aug. 30.

Restaurants can pay as much as they want for that beautiful, blue ribbon beef. Slaughterers can too, but there is a gimmick as far as the commercial re-sale men are concerned.

State Fair Manager H. S. Foust said the Office of Price Stabilization has decreed that any slaughterer who resells State Fair meat must do so at regular ceiling prices.

Steel Supply Balance Awaited

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—Magazine Steel said today that industry sources do not expect balance between supply and demand in steel distribution before the first quarter of 1952.

The national metalworking trade publication said that while outlook is for a greater finished steel supply in the fourth quarter, demand will exceed supply by a substantial margin.

Steel added:

"Government authorities are hopeful over-allotments for the period will not exceed supply by 10 percent, this hope, in part, being based on expectation some consumers may not specify to full extent of allotments."

Yacht Club Sinks In Ohio River

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14 — A yacht club sank in the Ohio river yesterday.

The Town Yacht Club of Cincinnati has its quarters in an old barge which serves both as a clubroom and as a mooring float for its members' craft. Today the barge settled to the bottom in shallow water.

Stewards advised boat owners to release their craft and take them to other moorings before they were pulled under.

Teen Tips

"I am a 'teen-ager of 14 and have a strange mother," writes a high school girl.

"She's cross at night as she works 40 hours weekly. Still she seems partial toward my 16-year-old sister. She gives my sister all her necessities plus an allowance. I have to get along on baby-sitting wages and buy all my necessities with my own money.

"When I suggest she quit her job, she slaps me. We have an argument every night. She brags that my sister is cute, but says I'm homely and stubborn. This is getting on my nerves. What shall I do?"

Your problem is a very tough one. Judging by the unprintable words that your mother uses to you, according to your letter, her language is inexcusable and her attitude is cruel and unfair. It's hard to learn how to improve your appearance and personality and do your best if your mother always praises your sister and never helps or encourages you.

Unfortunately there isn't much you can do about it except try to avoid trouble with her until you finish high school and can support yourself and live elsewhere. . .unless you can arrange to live with a relative now.

Why not take commercial subjects and work well at them so you can get a job and live in pleasanter, more healthful surroundings as soon as you graduate? Meanwhile try to get along as quietly as you can and avoid making your mother angry. Go to your father for things you need. Get help from your sister and girl friends in ways to look as attractive as you can. Ask your sister's help and try to make a good friend of her.

For help with personal problems, write to Elinor Williams at this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a reply.

Grange Insurance Setup Under Fire From Committee

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 14—Accusations of insurance payment kickbacks were hurled today by the insurgent faction attacking Ohio State Grange leadership on the ground that it is dominated by its insurance interests.

Ralph O. Brown of Hoytville, heading the "Ohio Grange Fraternity Committee," charged that "Johnnie's Garage" of Columbus furnished a sworn affidavit that a 10 percent "kickback" on five auto repair bills, totaling about $675, had been paid in cash to Charles Haaf, claims supervisor of the Grange Mutual Casualty Co.

The committee also claimed that a Columbus public relations firm had been employed to aid in the election of state Grange officers at the 1950 convention in Toledo.

The charges were contained in a statement mailed to the 900 local Granges in the state.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

For every mother there's the problem of cultivating good elimination habits in her child. Proper diet for the youngster, poise and gentle persuasive powers in the mother and her ability to hew to routine are her major means of success. Accordingly, she seeks the guidance of her physician and follows his directions faithfully.

It is amazing at how early an age some mothers can train the child to keep dry and tidy. But a great many mothers begin toilet training far too early.

Failing to succeed as they think they should, they grow anxious and nervous over the matter and, in consequence, less patient with the youngster who, in turn, grows more resistant and less cooperative.

Some young mothers begin toilet training too early and grow panicky over their supposed failures because they hear some other mothers bragging over their very early achievements at toilet training. If these successful mothers only knew the harm they did, they would quit their bragging. One of the biggest barriers to success at training the child well in toilet habits is the dread of social disapproval. This fear in turn renders the unsuccessful mother less able to succeed.

EVERY MOTHER should try to face this matter sensibly, take stock of her resources, and proceed accordingly, never allowing herself to accuse herself for supposed incompetence. After all, it's her own business, and the more objectively she can consider the matter, the better she will eventually succeed. (My bulletin, "Training Child in Toilet Habits," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper.)

A few simple principles are important: to study the child's rhythm of urinating and bowel evacuation; to get him on the nursery chair or "toidy" regularly at the most favorable moments; and to get him there without his resistance, but with his agreeable and cooperative attitude. This requires great poise, patience and skill in the mother. Preventing stubbornness in him in connection with this series of experiences depends largely on how well his cheerful cooperation can be won in all other situations. Let me repeat a warning I have often made: Aim to avoid rebuke and punishment in connection with the child's eating and elimination.

Success in the early stages of toilet training helps prevent problems of constipation then and later. While proper diet and routine are essential for bowel evacuation regularly (at any age), emotional well-being and relaxation are important, sometimes the most important, factors. And as you and I know, it's the emotional poise of the mother that does most to promote emotional poise in the child.

Answering Parents' Questions

Q. What's a good way to accustom a baby beginning to walk to bumps and scratches?

A. By always letting him pick himself up, in case he can, and betraying no emotion in yourself. Sometimes also by telling him how brave he is, believing it. While kissing and cuddling can be temporary help for little hurts, they tend to foster fears and over-dependence.

No Price Lids On Beef At Ohio State Fair

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14—In this day of omni-present price ceilings, there remains today one haven for the uninhabited who would shoot the works on one single deal—the Ohio State Fair.

It's amazingly simple. There are no price ceilings on the cattle to be sold there as prize winners Aug. 30.

Restaurants can pay as much as they want for that beautiful, blue ribbon beef. Slaughterers can too, but there is a gimmick as far as the commercial re-sale men are concerned.

State Fair Manager H. S. Foust said the Office of Price Stabilization has decreed that any slaughterer who resells State Fair meat must do so at regular ceiling prices.

Steel Supply Balance Awaited

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—Magazine Steel said today that industry sources do not expect balance between supply and demand in steel distribution before the first quarter of 1952.

The national metalworking trade publication said that while outlook is for a greater finished steel supply in the fourth quarter, demand will exceed supply by a substantial margin.

Steel added:

"Government authorities are hopeful over-allotments for the period will not exceed supply by 10 percent, this hope, in part, being based on expectation some consumers may not specify to full extent of allotments."

THE FIRST PUBLIC SHOWING of Le Sabre, an experiment in the automotive future, in the United States will be at the Michigan State fair, Lansing, Aug. 31-Sept. 9. The custom-built two seater was in development four years at General Motors. It is purely experimental, is powered by an experimental V-8 engine and its dual fuel system utilizes premium fuels and methyl alcohol (methanol). The 3,000-pound car is 36¼ inches high at the cowl and 50 inches high with the convertible top raised. Top section of the front grille is part of the lighting system. When the front lights are turned on, the grille revolves out of sight. The top can be raised partially to permit riders to get in and out more easily. (International)

Yacht Club Sinks In Ohio River

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14 — A yacht club sank in the Ohio river yesterday.

The Town Yacht Club of Cincinnati has its quarters in an old barge which serves both as a clubroom and as a mooring float for its members' craft. Today the barge settled to the bottom in shallow water.

Stewards advised boat owners to release their craft and take them to other moorings before they were pulled under.

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

"I am a 'teen-ager of 14 and have a strange mother," writes a high school girl.

"She's cross at night as she works 40 hours weekly. Still she seems partial toward my 16-year-old sister. She gives my sister all her necessities plus an allowance. I have to get along on baby-sitting wages and buy all my necessities with my own money.

"When I suggest she quit her job, she slaps me. We have an argument every night. She brags that my sister is cute, but says I'm homely and stubborn. This is getting on my nerves. What shall I do?"

Your problem is a very tough one. Judging by the unprintable words that your mother uses to you, according to your letter, her language is inexcusable and her attitude is cruel and unfair. It's hard to learn how to improve your appearance and personality and do your best if your mother always praises your sister and never helps or encourages you.

Oil Team Wins Opener By 15-9, 27-7 Or 32-6

Circleville's new industrial softball league opened Monday night in Ted Lewis Park with a high-scoring contest between Circleville Oil and Circleville Plastics team.

Official score of the league opener reported by James Callihan, official in the league, was 15-9 in favor of the Oil team.

However, the Oilers either won by the 15-9 margin, 27-7 or 32-6, depending upon whether you kept score on paper, played in the game or watched from the stands.

A player in the opening game disputed the official score, claiming a 27-7 win for the Oil team, while a spectator, who was keeping an account of the contest, said the score was 32-6, with the game being called in the fourth with only two out.

IN ANY EVENT, the Oil team won the game and another contest is due for Tuesday night in the park.

Scheduled to meet Tuesday are Harpster and Yost vs. General Electric, while Scioto Elks will meet Kingston Wednesday night and Container will meet Lawless Thursday night. All league games are to begin at about 8:15 p. m.

Hatters Advance Into Finals Of Loser's Bracket

Top Hat softballers moved into the loser's bracket finals of the district tournament in Portsmouth Monday night with a narrow 2-1 victory over Portsmouth.

Bill Ankrom and Lloyd Minor brought victory to the Hat crew during Monday's test, both rapping out home runs to give the local team its 2-1 win.

Hatter swatters are to meet Greenfield at about 8:30 p. m. Tuesday in Portsmouth for the loser's bracket title and a shot at the tourney crown.

If Top Hat bests Greenfield Tuesday, it will later meet the J. H. Butts team of Chillicothe to challenge for the tourney title. Butts is winner of the winner's bracket, must be beaten twice before losing its crown.

Title Fight Not To Be Aired

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—The Ray Robinson-Randy Turpin middleweight championship fight in the Polo Grounds Sept. 12 will get the theater television treatment.

At least 11 theaters in eight cities outside of New York will screen the bout. Otherwise, there will be no video or radio broadcast of the match for home consumption.

Nathan L. Halpern of Theatre Network Television said yesterday that if possible more than 11 theaters will be used. He said 25 or 26 theaters are equipped for it.

YANKEES SPANKED, 16-8

Indians Thrive On Tiger Meat; Feller Wins 19th

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—A diet of Tiger meat is making pennant-crazy savages out of the Cleveland Indians.

The Detroit variety, in particular, is just what the medicine doctor ordered for the American League pace-setters, who now have a 2 1-2 game advantage, an 11-game winning streak, and 1951's first potential 20-game winner in Bob Feller.

The Indians have met the Bengals 15 times this season and have beaten them 14 times. Why, the Tigers are lucky to score against the mound-strong Ohioans!

They did last night—once—as Feller, the top man in the majors, won his 19th game of the season, 2 to 1.

Feller was honored before the game, witnesses by 46,290 fans. He was cited as "the best of his time." And he came through.

Another fellow in this category, Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, was honored in Shibe Park, Philadelphia. Joe came through with three hits. But the Yanks were lucky to get out alive.

FOR WITHOUT benefit of a Sunday law or any stalling, the A's handed the Yanks their worst humiliation of the season, 16 to 8. They pounded four pitchers, from Starter Vic Raschi down the line, for 18 hits.

The Brooklyn Dodgers made all kinds of music in the National League. First, more than 2,000 alleged music lovers were admitted free to see the Dodgers play the Braves. Their ticket of admission was a musical instrument. And they spiced the Ebbets Field atmosphere with the sourest music this side of .....

And the Dodgers made their own kind of music, too, with homers.

A three-run sock by Gil Hodges, his 33rd of the season, broke a 4-4 deadlock in the eighth and provided the National League leaders with a 7-to-6 win. Earlier in the game, Roy Campanella connected for his 25th roundtripper, with one on.

Carl Erskine, kayoed during a two-run surge by Boston in the ninth, was credited with his 13th victory.

The New York Giants stayed 12 1-2 games behind the Dodgers but upped their second-place advantage to 4 1-2 games over Philadelphia when they beat the Phils, 5 to 2. Larry Jansen won his 15th game, aided by a three-run first inning homer by Whitey Lockman.

A four-game winning streak by St. Louis came to an end when the Cardinals, lost 6 to 3, to the Chicago Cubs. The Bruins scored four unearned run on three Cardinal errors.

Stan Musial connected for his 26th homer of the season and 200th of his major league career and Wally Westlake hit his 20th.

Cincinnati snapped a four-game losing streak by topping the Pittsburgh Pirates twice in a twinight doubleheader. Howie Fox shut out the Bucs, 2 to 0, on a five hitter and the Reds won the second contest, 7 to 6, on a four-hitter by Ewell Blackwell.

Fox and Ted Kluszewski hit first game homers and Blackwell's bid for a shutout in the night game was ruined by a Buc four-bagger by Tom Saffell.

Leach Posts 81 In National Jaycee Contest

The field of 210 young golfers from throughout the nation will be cut down to only 123 following Tuesday's final qualifying round.

Match play in the national tournament is to begin for the qualifiers Wednesday, and play will continue through Saturday.

Leach finished his first qualifier Monday with a 39-42-81, a dozen points behind George Clark of Ottumwa, Ia., who posted a one-under-par 69 in his opener to lead the pack.

* * *

FOUR OTHER Ohio lads who are entered in the tourney fared better than Leach and Cardi, however.

Pat Schwab of Dayton, winner of the Ohio Jaycee match in which Leach finished fourth, tallied a 74 for the day, while Bob Benning, also of Dayton, tallied a 73.

Leach, Schwab, Benning and Frankenfeld received free trips to the national contest by virtue of placing in the state tournament in late July, while Bell and Cardi are sponsoring themselves in the national test.

All Three Local Caddies Qualify For Final Round

All three Circlevile entries in the 1951 district caddy golf tournament passed qualifying tests Monday in Columbus.

Ab Leach, Don Olney and Walt Heine teed off at Wyandot Country Club Tuesday to complete the final round of this year's district bag-toter's match.

Although all three local boys qualified to advance into the finals, the locals were from five to 12 strokes off the pace.

FINAL ROUND of play in the caddy tournament for Tuesday was cut down to threesomes after the qualifying round.

Heine (83) was to have teed off at 9:55 a. m. in a threesome with Richard Chrysler (73) and Ray McFarland (85).

Leach (79) was to have teed off at 10:10 a. m. with Sonny Carson (77) and Mike Salamony (85).

Olney (76) was to have teed off at 10:30 a. m. with Leader Wahoff (71) and George Killea (82).

Oil Team Wins Opener By 15-9, 27-7 Or 32-6

Circleville's new industrial softball league opened Monday night in Ted Lewis Park with a high-scoring contest between Circleville Oil and Circleville Plastics team.

The league also opened with a rhubarb about the actual score of the opening game.

Official score of the league opener reported by James Callihan, official in the league, was 15-9 in favor of the Oil team.

However, the Oilers either won by the 15-9 margin, 27-7 or 32-6, depending upon whether you kept score on paper, played in the game or watched from the stands.

A player in the opening game disputed the official score, claiming a 27-7 win for the Oil team, while a spectator, who was keeping an account of the contest, said the score was 32-6, with the game being called in the fourth with only two out.

IN ANY EVENT, the Oil team won the game and another contest is due for Tuesday night in the park.

Scheduled to meet Tuesday are Harpster and Yost vs. General Electric, while Scioto Elks will meet Kingston Wednesday night and Container will meet Lawless Thursday night. All league games are to begin at about 8:15 p. m.

Hatters Advance Into Finals Of Loser's Bracket

Top Hat softballers moved into the loser's bracket finals of the district tournament in Portsmouth Monday night with a narrow 2-1 victory over Portsmouth.

Bill Ankrom and Lloyd Minor brought victory to the Hat crew during Monday's test, both rapping out home runs to give the local team its 2-1 win.

Hatter swatters are to meet Greenfield at about 8:30 p. m. Tuesday in Portsmouth for the loser's bracket title and a shot at the tourney crown.

If Top Hat bests Greenfield Tuesday, it will later meet the J. H. Butts team of Chillicothe to challenge for the tourney title. Butts is winner of the winner's bracket, must be beaten twice before losing its crown.

Title Fight Not To Be Aired

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—The Ray Robinson-Randy Turpin middleweight championship fight in the Polo Grounds Sept. 12 will get the theater television treatment.

At least 11 theaters in eight cities outside of New York will screen the bout. Otherwise, there will be no video or radio broadcast of the match for home consumption.

Nathan L. Halpern of Theatre Network Television said yesterday that if possible more than 11 theaters will be used. He said 25 or 26 theaters are equipped for it.

YANKEES SPANKED, 16-8

Indians Thrive On Tiger Meat; Feller Wins 19th

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—A diet of Tiger meat is making pennant-crazy savages out of the Cleveland Indians.

The Detroit variety, in particular, is just what the medicine doctor ordered for the American League pace-setters, who now have a 2 1-2 game advantage, an 11-game winning streak, and 1951's first potential 20-game winner in Bob Feller.

The Indians have met the Bengals 15 times this season and have beaten them 14 times. Why, the Tigers are lucky to score against the mound-strong Ohioans!

They did last night—once—as Feller, the top man in the majors, won his 19th game of the season, 2 to 1.

Feller was honored before the game, witnesses by 46,290 fans. He was cited as "the best of his time." And he came through.

Another fellow in this category, Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, was honored in Shibe Park, Philadelphia. Joe came through with three hits. But the Yanks were lucky to get out alive.

FOR WITHOUT benefit of a Sunday law or any stalling, the A's handed the Yanks their worst humiliation of the season, 16 to 8. They pounded four pitchers, from Starter Vic Raschi down the line, for 18 hits.

The Brooklyn Dodgers made all kinds of music in the National League. First, more than 2,000 alleged music lovers were admitted free to see the Dodgers play the Braves. Their ticket of admission was a musical instrument. And they spiced the Ebbets Field atmosphere with the sourest music this side of .....

And the Dodgers made their own kind of music, too, with homers.

A three-run sock by Gil Hodges, his 33rd of the season, broke a 4-4 deadlock in the eighth and provided the National League leaders with a 7-to-6 win. Earlier in the game, Roy Campanella connected for his 25th roundtripper, with one on.

The New York Giants stayed 12 1-2 games behind the Dodgers but upped their second-place advantage to 4 1-2 games over Philadelphia when they beat the Phils, 5 to 2. Larry Jansen won his 15th game, aided by a three-run first inning homer by Whitey Lockman.

A four-game winning streak by St. Louis came to an end when the Cardinals, lost 6 to 3, to the Chicago Cubs. The Bruins scored four unearned run on three Cardinal errors.

Stan Musial connected for his 26th homer of the season and 200th of his major league career and Wally Westlake hit his 20th.

Cincinnati snapped a four-game losing streak by topping the Pittsburgh Pirates twice in a twinight doubleheader. Howie Fox shut out the Bucs, 2 to 0, on a five hitter and the Reds won the second contest, 7 to 6, on a four-hitter by Ewell Blackwell.

Fox and Ted Kluszewski hit first game homers and Blackwell's bid for a shutout in the night game was ruined by a Buc four-bagger by Tom Saffell.

Leach Posts 81 In National Jaycee Contest

Leach passed his first-round test Monday with an 81-stroke card in the tough national contest, 12 points away from the bottom score of the day.

The field of 210 young golfers from throughout the nation will be cut down to only 123 following Tuesday's final qualifying round.

Match play in the national tournament is to begin for the qualifiers Wednesday, and play will continue through Saturday.

Leach finished his first qualifier Monday with a 39-42-81, a dozen points behind George Clark of Ottumwa, Ia., who posted a one-under-par 69 in his opener to lead the pack.

Tying with Leach in the qualifying round was Frank Cardi of Columbus, winner of this year's district tourney, who posted a 39-42 also.

* * *

FOUR OTHER Ohio lads who are entered in the tourney fared better than Leach and Cardi, however.

Pat Schwab of Dayton, winner of the Ohio Jaycee match in which Leach finished fourth, tallied a 74 for the day, while Bob Benning, also of Dayton, tallied a 73.

Leach, Schwab, Benning and Frankenfeld received free trips to the national contest by virtue of placing in the state tournament in late July, while Bell and Cardi are sponsoring themselves in the national test.

All Three Local Caddies Qualify For Final Round

All three Circleville entries in the 1951 district caddy golf tournament passed qualifying tests Monday in Columbus.

Ab Leach, Don Olney and Walt Heine teed off at Wyandot Country Club Tuesday to complete the final round of this year's district bag-toter match.

Although all three local boys qualified to advance into the finals, the locals were from five to 12 strokes off the pace.

Heading the Circleville delegation at five strokes away from the lead was Olney with a 76, while Ab Leach posted a 79 and Heine scored 83.

FINAL ROUND of play in the caddy tournament for Tuesday was cut down to threesomes after the qualifying round.

Heine (83) was to have teed off at 9:55 a. m. in a threesome with Richard Chrysler (73) and Ray McFarland (85).

Leach (79) was to have teed off at 10:10 a. m. with Sonny Carson (77) and Mike Salamony (85).

Olney (76) was to have teed off at 10:30 a. m. with Leader Wahoff (71) and George Killea (82).

Direct Gal Cops Tiverton Pace

WESTBURY, N. Y., Aug. 14—Direct Gal won the featured Tiverton Pace at Roosevelt Raceway Monday night with a length victory over Etonia. Vivace Song was third.

The favored four-year-old mare, owned by Mudge and Sheppard of Hanover, Pa., and driven by John Simpson, turned in her best time of the season—2:05—in winning her second race in the last three outings.

Bass Strike Slowly At Night; They Can't See In Dark Either

The largemouth bass prowls after dark. It is a known fact among old-timers that the average weight of each bass taken at night is much greater than the daytime average.

There are some very logical reasons for this. To begin with, a really big bass got that way because it was smarter than many of its smaller brethren who wound up on a stringer, or in the stomach of a bigger, smarter bass.

Being smarter, it knows trouble is brewing when it sees a man wading or bouncing around in a boat. So, when the daytime traffic is heavy, Mister Bass doesn't feed until night when things quiet down.

About the time most ordinary fishermen are leaving the lake, the veteran bass fishermen are just going out with such time-proven surface lures as the crazy crawler and wounded spook.

AND IT'S JUST short of amazing how these after-dark casters develop a sense of accuracy that allows them to drop a plug against the shore when they can't even see their companion at the opposite end of the boat. It's done through a keen sense of timing—and, of course, experience.

And here, say the experts, is where most night fishermen miss the boat and the bass—they don't wait long enough after their plug hits the water before starting their retrieve because they are in too much of a hurry to make another cast.

The bait might land 50 feet from Mister Bass. Give him a minute or two (and that's a long time when you're waiting) to swim to where he heard it fall.

Now, that he has located its general area and is waiting for additional noise so he can pinpoint his target, don't move that plug violently—do it gently and tantalizingly, like a creature injured and struggling toward shore. The experts then declare:

"When you hear a noise like 16 sticks of dynamite, set the hooks hard and head Mister Bass toward open water and play him out. Don't ever horse a lively bass into your boat, either day or night, for a hefty bass flopping around with a face full of treble hooks is a first-class menace.

"Play it out, grab it by the lower jaw and lift it into the boat. Then use pliers and flashlight, two indispensable tools for night fishing.

"Big bass are where you find them and you'll find more of them after dark if you'll just give them time to come to the supper table."

New $2 Ohio Hunting Permits Now On Sale

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14 — The 1951 Ohio hunting licenses are now in the hands of the 2500 license agencies throughout the state.

Harry West, chief of the accounting and budgeting section of the Department of Natural Resources, has announced that a total of 600,000 licenses have been distributed among the agencies and may now be purchased by hunters.

The price for the 1951 license will be $2, as established by the 99th General Assembly, with the usual 25-cent agents fee. Formerly the license sold for $1 with the fee. Non-resident licenses are $15 with a fee of 25 cents.

West cautioned the hunters that the new license does not become effective until Sept. 1, and that violators will be subject to arrest if found hunting before that date with the new license.

As in the past all hunters and trappers are required to carry and display their license on the middle of the back while hunting in the field.

Due to a delay in establishing some of the game seasons until a later date the Digest of Game Laws, usually available with the license, will not be distributed until Oct. 1.

Sampson Hanover Goes In 2 Flat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 14—Credit for the first two-minute mile raced by a harness horse in Illinois this season went today to Sampson Hanover, owned by K. D. Owen of Houston, Tex.

These Days

"The IWO operates through a system of more than 1,600 lodges throughout the United States. These lodges fall into 16 nationality societies, which are administrative subdivisions of the IWO, having no separate corporate existence. In many cases much of the business of these societies is transacted in the language of the nationality group in question. These groups are as follows:

"American Russian Fraternal Society; Carpatho-Russian American Mutual Aid Society; Cervantes Fraternal Society; Croatian Benevolent Fraternity of America; Czech Workers Society; Douglass Lincoln Fraternal Society; Finnish American Mutual Aid Society; Garibaldi American Fraternal Society; Hellenic American Fraternal Society; Hungarian Brotherhood; Jewish Peoples Fraternal Order; Polonia Society; Roumanian American Fraternal Society; Serbian American Federation; Slovak Workers Society; Ukrainian American Fraternal Union."

The brief clearly establishes Communist propagandist activity by the International Workers Order. The attorney general is required to show "weighty reason for departing in this instance from a rule so deeply imbedded in history and in the demands of justice. Nothing in the loyalty order requires him to deny organizations opportunity to present their case. The executive order, defining his powers, directs only that designation shall be made 'after appropriate investigation and determination.' This surely does not preclude an administrative procedure, however informal, which would incorporate the essentials of due process."

The real trouble here stems from the fact that the attorney general's lists are a product of an executive order which does not define the word "subversive."

If we want really to get Communists, Marxist and Russian agents, out of the government, why not specifically define them as such?

Disputed Game To Be Aired By AL Chieftains

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—Two major league baseball club managers and four umpires will meet with American League President Will Harridge Aug. 27 to decide the outcome of a disputed game which may have a lot to do with the New York Yankees pennant hopes.

Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox and the Yankee's Casey Stengel will present arguments from which Harridge will formulate a decision, aided also by the testimony of Umpires Hank Soar, Bill McGowan, Bill McKinley and Jim Honochick.

Soar called the disputed game between the two clubs last July 27 at the top of the ninth inning when the White Sox were leading 4 to 3 with the bases loaded and only one out.

However, the score automatically reverted to the end of the eighth inning when the Yanks had victory cinched 3 to 1. Stengel used four pitchers to oppose five White Sox batters and Richards claims these tactics involved more stalling than strategy.

The game was called not because of rain but "because the grounds were unplayable."

West And South May Be Tied To Basketball Fix

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 — The college basketball "fix" scandal threatened today to spread to the Pacific Coast and the Deep South with the arrest of a new material witness.

He is Nathaniel "Love" Brown, 33, of Brooklyn, who is being held in $15,000 bail as a material witness.

According to Assistant District Attorney Vincent O'Connor, Brown represented the syndicate in the south and west "in their illicit schemes." He had been sought for months.

O'Connor said he was a "cohort" of four suspected bribers and named them as Nick and Tony Englisis, brothers, now in protective custody; Marvin Mansberg of Brooklyn and Saul Feinberg, a Harvard law school student, accused of joining with the Englisises, Mansberg and Brown to fix the Bradley university - Bowling Green game in Madison Square Garden March 19, 1949.

He did not say if Brown made the fixes during his travels or just felt out the players for his bosses, but that he did follow the teams.

Other schools so far involved in the fix investigation aside from Bradley, are City College, Long Island university and New York university and the University of Toledo. In a separate fix investigation, players on the Manhattan college team are involved.

Good Time Gets Early Nod For Pacing Derby

YONKERS, N. Y., Aug. 14—Bill Cane's all-time record money winning Good Time is the early favorite in a field of nine fleet pacers slated to go to the post in the $25,000 Pacing Derby at Yonkers Raceway Thursday night.

The Yonkers Summer meet opens tomorrow and runs through Aug. 28.

The mark was subsequently shattered by two seconds by Scottish Pence, Good Time's most dangerous rival Thursday night. The early figures list the Castleton Farm star at 3-1.

In four racing seasons, Good Time has pocketed $169,904 for Cane. The horse last week turned back Scottish Pence in straight heats at Goshen, the final dash being clocked in a sizzling 1:59 1-5.

Bass Strike Slowly At Night; They Can't See In Dark Either

The largemouth bass prowls after dark. It is a known fact among old-timers that the average weight of each bass taken at night is much greater than the daytime average.

There are some very logical reasons for this. To begin with, a really big bass got that way because it was smarter than many of its smaller brethren who wound up on a stringer, or in the stomach of a bigger, smarter bass.

Being smarter, it knows trouble is brewing when it sees a man wading or bouncing around in a boat. So, when the daytime traffic is heavy, Mister Bass doesn't feed until night when things quiet down.

About the time most ordinary fishermen are leaving the lake, the veteran bass fishermen are just going out with such time-proven surface lures as the crazy crawler and wounded spook.

AND IT'S JUST short of amazing how these after-dark casters develop a sense of accuracy that allows them to drop a plug against the shore when they can't even see their companion at the opposite end of the boat. It's done through a keen sense of timing—and, of course, experience.

And here, say the experts, is where most night fishermen miss the boat and the bass—they don't wait long enough after their plug hits the water before starting their retrieve because they are in too much of a hurry to make another cast.

The bait might land 50 feet from Mister Bass. Give him a minute or two (and that's a long time when you're waiting) to swim to where he heard it fall.

Now, that he has located its general area and is waiting for additional noise so he can pinpoint his target, don't move that plug violently—do it gently and tantalizingly, like a creature injured and struggling toward shore. The experts then declare:

"When you hear a noise like 16 sticks of dynamite, set the hooks hard and head Mister Bass toward open water and play him out. Don't ever horse a lively bass into your boat, either day or night, for a hefty bass flopping around with a face full of treble hooks is a first-class menace.

"Play it out, grab it by the lower jaw and lift it into the boat. Then use pliers and flashlight, two indispensable tools for night fishing.

"Big bass are where you find them and you'll find more of them after dark if you'll just give them time to come to the supper table."

New $2 Ohio Hunting Permits Now On Sale

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14 — The 1951 Ohio hunting licenses are now in the hands of the 2500 license agencies throughout the state.

Harry West, chief of the accounting and budgeting section of the Department of Natural Resources, has announced that a total of 600,000 licenses have been distributed among the agencies and may now be purchased by hunters.

The price for the 1951 license will be $2, as established by the 99th General Assembly, with the usual 25-cent agents fee. Formerly the license sold for $1 with the fee. Non-resident licenses are $15 with a fee of 25 cents.

West cautioned the hunters that the new license does not become effective until Sept. 1, and that violators will be subject to arrest if found hunting before that date with the new license.

As in the past all hunters and trappers are required to carry and display their license on the middle of the back while hunting in the field.

Due to a delay in establishing some of the game seasons until a later date the Digest of Game Laws, usually available with the license, will not be distributed until Oct. 1.

Sampson Hanover Goes In 2 Flat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 14—Credit for the first two-minute mile raced by a harness horse in Illinois this season went today to Sampson Hanover, owned by K. D. Owen of Houston, Tex.

These Days

The IWO operates through a system of more than 1,600 lodges throughout the United States. These lodges fall into 16 nationality societies, which are administrative subdivisions of the IWO, having no separate corporate existence. In many cases much of the business of these societies is transacted in the language of the nationality group in question. These groups are as follows:

"American Russian Fraternal Society; Carpatho-Russian American Mutual Aid Society; Cervantes Fraternal Society; Croatian Benevolent Fraternity of America; Czech Workers Society; Douglass Lincoln Fraternal Society; Finnish American Mutual Aid Society; Garibaldi American Fraternal Society; Hellenic American Fraternal Society; Hungarian Brotherhood; Jewish Peoples Fraternal Order; Polonia Society; Roumanian American Fraternal Society; Serbian American Federation; Slovak Workers Society; Ukrainian American Fraternal Union."

The brief clearly establishes Communist propagandist activity by the International Workers Order. The attorney general is required to show "weighty reason for departing in this instance from a rule so deeply imbedded in history and in the demands of justice. Nothing in the loyalty order requires him to deny organizations opportunity to present their case. The executive order, defining his powers, directs only that designation shall be made 'after appropriate investigation and determination.' This surely does not preclude an administrative procedure, however informal, which would incorporate the essentials of due process."

The real trouble here stems from the fact that the attorney general's lists are a product of an executive order which does not define the word "subversive."

If we want really to get Communists, Marxist and Russian agents, out of the government, why not specifically define them as such?

Disputed Game To Be Aired By AL Chieftains

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—Two major league baseball club managers and four umpires will meet with American League President Will Harridge Aug. 27 to decide the outcome of a disputed game which may have a lot to do with the New York Yankees pennant hopes.

Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox and the Yankee's Casey Stengel will present arguments from which Harridge will formulate a decision, aided also by the testimony of Umpires Hank Soar, Bill McGowan, Bill McKinley and Jim Honochick.

Soar called the disputed game between the two clubs last July 27 at the top of the ninth inning when the White Sox were leading 4 to 3 with the bases loaded and only one out.

However, the score automatically reverted to the end of the eighth inning when the Yanks had victory cinched 3 to 1. Stengel used four pitchers to oppose five White Sox batters and Richards claims these tactics involved more stalling than strategy.

The game was called not because of rain but "because the grounds were unplayable."

West And South May Be Tied To Basketball Fix

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 — The college basketball "fix" scandal threatened today to spread to the Pacific Coast and the Deep South with the arrest of a new material witness.

He is Nathaniel "Love" Brown, 33, of Brooklyn, who is being held in $15,000 bail as a material witness.

According to Assistant District Attorney Vincent O'Connor, Brown represented the syndicate in the south and west "in their illicit schemes." He had been sought for months.

O'Connor said he was a "cohort" of four suspected bribers and named them as Nick and Tony Englisis, brothers, now in protective custody; Marvin Mansberg of Brooklyn and Saul Feinberg, a Harvard law school student, accused of joining with the Englisises, Mansberg and Brown to fix the Bradley university - Bowling Green game in Madison Square Garden March 19, 1949.

He did not say if Brown made the fixes during his travels or just felt out the players for his bosses, but that he did follow the teams.

Other schools so far involved in the fix investigation aside from Bradley, are City College, Long Island university and New York university and the University of Toledo. In a separate fix investigation, players on the Manhattan college team are involved.

Good Time Gets Early Nod For Pacing Derby

YONKERS, N. Y., Aug. 14—Bill Cane's all-time record money winning Good Time is the early favorite in a field of nine fleet pacers slated to go to the post in the $25,000 Pacing Derby at Yonkers Raceway Thursday night.

The Yonkers Summer meet opens tomorrow and runs through Aug. 28.

Good Time is a 2-1 choice to win the 1 1-2 mile derby. He won the first running last year in the world record time of 3:08.

The mark was subsequently shattered by two seconds by Scottish Pence, Good Time's most dangerous rival Thursday night. The early figures list the Castleton Farm star at 3-1.

In four racing seasons, Good Time has pocketed $169,904 for Cane. The horse last week turned back Scottish Pence in straight heats at Goshen, the final dash being clocked in a sizzling 1:59 1-5.

6-Year Rotation Plan Grows

Local Soils Aide Gives Plan Details

Old 3-Year Fencing System Is Used

A six-year crop rotation designed to improve the soil particularly on farms still fenced for the old three-year rotation, has been devised by the Soil Conservation Service.

This rotation in one county in Illinois was adopted by 28 farmers on 2,000 acres and results in one year were so visible that last year, 1118 farmers operated under the plan on 10,000 acres and another 10,000 acres will be added to the system this year, according to James Muster, local SCS spokesman.

The farm fenced for a three-year rotation requires no fence changes, an important item these days, Muster says, adding:

"The farmer grows the same corn acreage he previously grew, the same acreage of small grain and the same acreage of legumes. However, the legume acreage is so managed as to add one green manure catch crop, thus appreciably increasing the nitrogen and organic matter content of the soil and of great importance, it increases the physical condition or tilth of the land.

"AFTER MANY years of trials at experiment stations, the quality of the soil deteriorated under the corn, small grain and clover rotation even though lime, manure and fertilizer was applied.

"The new rotation containing a deep rooted catch crop and the holding of alfalfa and grass for two years once during the rotation, corrects the deficiencies of the old system above named.

"A prominent feature of the new rotation is that each year one field is entirely in alfalfa-grass mixture for convenience in pasturing; part of it being in 1st year meadow and part in 2nd year meadow.

"The Soil Conservation Service offers to help cooperating farmers in getting this new rotation established on their farms.

"The new rotation isn't a cure-all for field problems and it does not replace the most recommended rotation which consists of corn, small grain and two years of alfalfa and grass, grown in four years."

Reds Smell Plot Making English World Language

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—Columbia university has reported Russia is charging there is a capitalistic plot to make English—the language of Shakespeare and Dizzy Dean—the global tongue.

Columbia says the Kremlin thinks if any world language is adopted it should be Russian.

The Russian attack was made in the Romanian language publication "Cum Vorbim" and singled out as a special target was Dr. Mario Pei, associate professor of romance philology at Columbia. Dr. Pei is author of the book, "The World's Chief Languages," a treatise on the seven major and 30 most widely used minor languages in the world.

V. N. Yartseva, a Soviet philologist, charged that Pei in his book sought to make English the international tongue and thus was "promulgating a doctrine of language comparable to the Nazis' claim of German superiority."

The article added, "in his opinion, the Indo-European languages and the people who speak these languages are the best in the world, and English is a fair representative of them all."

Dr. Pei said he had pointed out in a reply, which he doubted would ever be published in Russia, that the Indo-European language group includes in addition to Russian itself all the Slavic languages, the Germanic tongues, Persian and Armenian, most of the tongues of Northern India, the Celtic languages, Greek and Latin.

He noted that following a pronouncement by Stalin last year "Soviet philologists have argued for the acceptance of Russian as a world language."

Fatal Shooting Hearing Is Set

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14—Edward Penn, 24, of Columbus, will be arraigned today in municipal court on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday of Donald Bamfield, 47, of Norwich.

Bamfield, a service station operator and a former school superintendent, was killed when he burst into the apartment of his estranged wife, Mrs. Carrie Bamfield, 34, to find her with Penn.

Detectives said Penn admitted firing the .32-caliber automatic pistol which killed Bamfield when both were scuffling.

6-Year Rotation Plan Grows

Local Soils Aide Gives Plan Details

Old 3-Year Fencing System Is Used

A six-year crop rotation designed to improve the soil particularly on farms still fenced for the old three-year rotation, has been devised by the Soil Conservation Service.

This rotation in one county in Illinois was adopted by 28 farmers on 2,000 acres and results in one year were so visible that last year, 1118 farmers operated under the plan on 10,000 acres and another 10,000 acres will be added to the system this year, according to James Muster, local SCS spokesman.

The farm fenced for a three-year rotation requires no fence changes, an important item these days, Muster says, adding:

"The farmer grows the same corn acreage he previously grew, the same acreage of small grain and the same acreage of legumes. However, the legume acreage is so managed as to add one green manure catch crop, thus appreciably increasing the nitrogen and organic matter content of the soil and of great importance, it increases the physical condition or tilth of the land.

"AFTER MANY years of trials at experiment stations, the quality of the soil deteriorated under the corn, small grain and clover rotation even though lime, manure and fertilizer was applied.

"The new rotation containing a deep rooted catch crop and the holding of alfalfa and grass for two years once during the rotation, corrects the deficiencies of the old system above named.

"A prominent feature of the new rotation is that each year one field is entirely in alfalfa-grass mixture for convenience in pasturing; part of it being in 1st year meadow and part in 2nd year meadow.

"The Soil Conservation Service offers to help cooperating farmers in getting this new rotation established on their farms.

"The new rotation isn't a cure-all for field problems and it does not replace the most recommended rotation which consists of corn, small grain and two years of alfalfa and grass, grown in four years."

Reds Smell Plot Making English World Language

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—Columbia university has reported Russia is charging there is a capitalistic plot to make English—the language of Shakespeare and Dizzy Dean—the global tongue.

Columbia says the Kremlin thinks if any world language is adopted it should be Russian.

The Russian attack was made in the Romanian language publication "Cum Vorbim" and singled out as a special target was Dr. Mario Pei, associate professor of romance philology at Columbia. Dr. Pei is author of the book, "The World's Chief Languages," a treatise on the seven major and 30 most widely used minor languages in the world.

V. N. Yartseva, a Soviet philologist, charged that Pei in his book sought to make English the international tongue and thus was "promulgating a doctrine of language comparable to the Nazis' claim of German superiority."

The article added, "in his opinion, the Indo-European languages and the people who speak these languages are the best in the world, and English is a fair representative of them all."

Dr. Pei said he had pointed out in a reply, which he doubted would ever be published in Russia, that the Indo-European language group includes in addition to Russian itself all the Slavic languages, the Germanic tongues, Persian and Armenian, most of the tongues of Northern India, the Celtic languages, Greek and Latin.

He noted that following a pronouncement by Stalin last year "Soviet philologists have argued for the acceptance of Russian as a world language."

Fatal Shooting Hearing Is Set

COLUMBUS, Aug. 14—Edward Penn, 24, of Columbus, will be arraigned today in municipal court on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday of Donald Bamfield, 47, of Norwich.

Bamfield, a service station operator and a former school superintendent, was killed when he burst into the apartment of his estranged wife, Mrs. Carrie Bamfield, 34, to find her with Penn.

Detectives said Penn admitted firing the .32-caliber automatic pistol which killed Bamfield when both were scuffling.

HIGH EFFECTIVENESS of the Schafer-Emerson-Ivy artificial respiration method is shown at the bottom. By combining the old Schafer method with the newer Emerson technique, the better features of both are used and present life savers have a running start on learning the new one. Methods shown at the top have the edge on the standard Schafer style, but each has its drawbacks. The Holger-Nielsen method can result in torn arm muscles and broken ribs. Two operators are needed for combining it with the Schafer, while one still can do the job with the Schafer-Emerson-Ivy.
